Viet 1st On Agenda

HONOLULU (AP) — President Nixon, beginning a round of mid- Pacific conferences today, put Vietnam first on the agenda, then a bid for a billion - dollar economic transfusion from Japan.

Before opening formal summit talks with visiting Japanese Prime Minister Kakuei Tanaka, Nixon set aside the morning for a Vietnam review with Ellsworth Bunker, U. S. Ambassador to Saigon.

The President and Mrs. Nixon were on hand at Hickam Air Force base - a major target of Japan's 1941 attack that brought the United States into World War II to welcome the stocky Tanaka, who was installed as prime minister only last month.

The President and his advisers hope two days of sessions with Tanaka will produce a formal agreement by Japan to place an extra billion dollars on orders for American goods ranging from jet aircraft to feed grain.

Actually, the U. S. government would like Japan to up the ante to $2 billion, but preliminary talks in Tokyo indicated the lesser amount was more likely.

Americans currently are buying Japanese goods worth $3.8 billion more than they are selling to the Japanese each year. This imbalance is one factor behind the weakness of the dollar in international money markets.

Nixon and Tanaka will also talk about developing ties between their two countries and China.

While in Hawaii, the President and Mrs. Nixon are scheduling some activities that presumably could benefit the chief executive's campaign for a second term. Mrs. Nixon, for example, was to spend more than seven hours today on the island of Hawaii, visiting good-works projects and being feted at an evening luau.

The Nixons, in what was regarded as at least a semi-political event, spent an hour Wednesday night shaking hands with about 600 Hawaii business, political and civic leaders at the oceanside estate of long -time Republican Clare Boothe Luce.

Nixon's schedule for today was confined solely to official business, however.

A CROWD of more than 1,500 persons and hundreds of cars lined the southbound lane of Interstate 55 from highway 51 overpass to the reviewing stand yesterday southwest of Perryville for the dedication of the new section of highway. The 29 mile stretch from Fruitland to Brewer completes the Missouri's part of Interstate 55 except for the 15 mile stretch below Hayti expected to open late in 1974.

Armed Robbers Sought

EAST PRAIRIE — Two white men, one armed with a shotgun and the other with a knife, held up the attendant of Bill McKinley's Package Liquor Store, Highway 105, early today.

According to Deputy Sheriff Jack Ivie, Richard Farquahar, the attendant said the men entered the store at 6:35 a.m. and demanded the money from the cash register while holding the gun and knife on him. An estimated $130 was taken from the register and $14 of Farquahar's money was taken from him.

Reportedly Farquahar was struck on the head with the butt of the shotgun and threatened with the knife after telling the men he could not open the store safe and he was locked in the cooler.

One of the men was described as being in his late 20's or early 30's, six foot, three inches tall, blonde, and wearing blue levis and a white and green shirt. He had a scar on the left side of his face running from the earlobe just under eye to his nose.

The other man was described as five foot, nine inches tall, 150 pounds, dark complexion and wearing a black flat top type hat.

Improvement Priorities Under Study

Sikeston Girds For New Growth

By RON PORTER

In 10 years Sikeston will have 25,000 people, more industry, more business, and a lot of problems.

But the problems won't be as great if City Manager Jim Huff and the Planning and Zoning Commission have their way.

The planning and zoning commission is now undertaking an extensive two month study of the Huff's expenditure- revenue study. The study might be called the Sikeston Shopping List. It includes just about everything ever proposed for Sikeston.

"We can't do everything at one time," vice chairman Shad Old said in an interview this week. Old, who is chairing the commission until a permanent chairman can be elected, has asked the commission to draw up a list of priorities from the proposals listed in the study.

Also being considered are the sources of revenue open to the city. When the revenue source is decided upon the city will be able to decide which of the improvements it wants and can afford.

Old said Huff's study is in response to the anticipated growth that will come with the completion of I-55 and the Mississippi River bridge at Cairo.

Sikeston is the growth center of the Bootheel, he said. The proof is in the Kingsway Plaza Mall opening here, the major motel chains building here and major business of other types moving in.

Charles Matthews of the Sikeston Industrial Development Commission would probably agree. He says businesses seeking new locations are showing an increased interest in Sikeston. Two or three businesses per month are looking at the city as a site for expansion.

Among the proposals in the Huff study are upgrading the police and fire departments, improvements in roads, sanitation, and storm drains, a new refuse disposal system, expanded recreation facilities, improvements at the airport, and in the administrative offices and the industrial development program.

Funding sources include a sales tax, liquor tax, cigarette tax (not recommended by Huff) and various fee increases.

Within one year to 18 months, Old said the city will need a new site for disposing of its garbage. Within 18 months to three years the city will have a unified garbage pickup system and will eliminate open burning within the city. This will be required under federal law, he said.

The city will need a third fire station on the north side, Old added. When it will be needed hasn't been decided yet, he said. Huff's study suggested 1976 as the target date.

Huff's study suggests land acquisition through 1976 for new and expanded parks at West End, Clayton, Scenic Waterway, compress, southeast, Northside, and Murray Lane Parks. An indoor swimming pool to be jointly used by the high school and the community is also proposed for 1973-74, although Huff says this date is probably overly optimistic.

A bookmobile to extend library service to shut- ins and individuals without transportation is suggested for 1975. A building expansion is proposed for 1976 and the addition of individual study areas in the library is proposed for 1977.

Runway extension, improvement and lighting at the airport is suggested for 1974.

A sales tax, according to Huff, would bring in $320,000 a year. The amount would increase as the city expands.

A utility tax would bring in as much as $274,000. A gas tax increase, $32,000; service charges, $9,500; storm drain fees, $10,000. Auto license increases, $9,000, a cigarette tax, $45,000; and a liquor tax, $5,000.

Old said there will be no tax increase without a vote of Sikeston residents.

Construction Equipment Stolen Here

Theives broke into a building behind the new Burger King restaurant on East Malone late Tuesday or early Wednesday and took $1,549 worth of construction equipment.

The equipment belonged to the Drury Construction Company of Cape Girardeau. The company is building the restaurant.

Taken were a welder, a cutting torch, 150 feet of wire and several smaller items.

Police said the theives broke in through a window, and opened a large door in the back of the building. They then backed a truck into the building and loaded on the stolen items.

In New Madrid County

Solid Waste Plans Approved

NEW MADRID — Engineering plans and specifications for a proposed county solid waste disposal area have been approved by the director of the bureau of solid waste management of the state division of health.

The disposal area is an 80-acre site purchased by the county on Highway 62, two miles west of Highway 61. It is designed to receive 30 tons of household, commercial, agricultural and demolition waste per day.

Utilizing approximately three acres annually, the sanitary landfill will serve the county for a period of 20 years.

The site has been termed excellent for solid waste disposal by the State Geological Survey and Water Resources who made soil analyses.

Plans call for the county-owned acreage to be leased to a private contractor, who will develop the area according to specifications required by the state division of health, furnish equipment and machinery and operate the system.

The county will construct an all weather access road through the site from north to south.

The sanitary landfill will utilize a trench method of operation. Trenches will be excavated to a depth of approximately six feet. Solid waste will be compacted to two feet in depth and covered daily with six inches of soil.

Three 20- foot sections of movable fence will be constructed for use near the landfill operating area for control of blowing paper and debris. A perimeter fence will be provided if controlling the access to the site or blowing of litter off the site becomes a problem.

Development of the area could begin within 60 days after contract and lease arrangements are made.

Gene Curtis of Matthews, appointed sanitary landfill technician by the county court, will supervise the landfill program.

Eagleton Favors VP Selection Change

CAPE GIRARDEAU, Mo. (AP) — Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton, who was greeted by enthusiastic crowds Wednesday while stumping for Democratic candidates during a tour of southeastern Missouri, said there should be a better method of selecting the vice presidential candidate.

Eagleton, who withdrew earlier this month as the Democratic vice presidential nominee, proposed at a luncheon here that the nation's second highest office should have its candidates chosen only after the presidential nominee has had "ten thoughtful, reflective, quiet days to pick his men."

The Missouri Democrat said such a system would prevent presidential nominees "from hastily reaching a decision."

Asked about a comment made Tuesday by Mrs. McGovern that the true story of Eagleton's resignation had not yet been told, Eagleton laughed and said, "There are a lot of things I am going to divulge when I write my book."

Eagleton formally withdrew from the race Aug. 1, after creating a furor with his announcement that he had undergone psychiatric treatment three times in the 1960s.

In a question and answer session with members of a Cape Girardeau Civic club, Eagleton backed Sen. George McGovern, his former running mate, but pointedly mentioned that he and McGovern differ on many domestic issues, particularly McGovern's stands on the economy and welfare.

Eagleton was asked if McGovern was moderating his stance of some positions and what effect it would have on his supporters.

"I can assure you there will be no wholesale switch in McGovern's positions," he said. "The strong motivation for McGovern in the primaries was the war issue...He still hasn't changed his attitude on the war, and he won't."

Fire Damages Dexter Home

DEXTER — Mr. and Mrs. Billy Gromer escaped injury early today when their home at 23 South Poplar was damaged by fire and smoke.

Firemen were called at 3:30 a.m. to the residence which had been ignited by electrical wiring in a hanging ceiling light. The wire burned through, the lamp dropped to the floor igniting the carpet, sofa and chair. Intense heat inside the house ignited the attic.

Fire Chief Al Banken said the Gromers are "two very lucky people to be alive. They could have suffocated before awakening."

Dollar estimates of damage were not available.

Charges Considered In Jail Spree

NEW MADRID — Prosecuting Attorney Hal E. Hunter Jr., said today that charges will probably be filed against New Madrid County prisoners involved in a chemical tossing incident Saturday in the county jail.

Ten prisoners were treated Saturday in the emergency room of Missouri Delta Community Hospital in Sikeston for scattered chemical burns. None were reported injured seriously.

Hunter said the charges would probably be filed following further investigation, noting that there is no hurry because the prisoners are not going anywhere.

Sheriff W. L. "Cowboy" Ramsey said some of the prisoners were tossing cups of water on each other and apparently one became angry. He picked up a can of toilet bowl cleaner, and when he tossed it around some of the caustic cleaner splattered the men.

Ramsey said there was no damage in the jail.

Stolen were a television set, an automatic washer, a bedroom set, and other small items. Police said all items have been recovered, except for the television set, which was resold. Police say they expect to recover it soon.

Other arrests yesterday include Kathey Oakley, Anniston, speeding. Elizabeth A. Turley, 723 Good Hope, speeding. Linda M. Jones, 247 Selma Street, public intoxication.

YOUR RESPONSIBILITY

Labor Day, the summer season's last important holiday, is almost here. As with all three-day holidays, one primary consideration will be sheer survival in the press of traffic and other hazards of congestion.

There is another consideration too of which we should all be acutely conscious. As individuals, we can each contribute mightily to pollution control during a period when lakes, forests, streams and parks are swamped with visitors. A leafelet, issued by Enterprise Publications of Chicago, offers the following questionnaire for those who are sincerely concerned about pollution. It asks, among other things: When did I last throw an empty can, bottle, cigarette butt, or paper wrapper out of the car window? When did I last throw a cigarette pack, gum or candy wrapper on the street or the floor of a public building? When did I last leave a picnic table without cleaning up? When did I last leave a camp site without picking up all the refuse? When did I last leave a public or private beach without picking up paper, glass, or other sharp objects? When did I last -- when no one was looking -- drop off garbage or junk by the side of the road -- hoping I wouldn't be caught?

How these questions can be answered by those returning from the long Labor Day weekend will be a pretty accurate gauge of public interest in pollution control.

SCOUTS: NEW AND IMPROVED

The Boy Scouts of Ameria, like many other institutions these days, is on a quest for relevance. A survey done by Daniel Yankelovich Inc. in 1968 revealed that many scouts found their organization too rigidly structured and its activities unrelated to future needs or present realities. To remedy that situation, and to recruit more older and minority youths, the BSA on Friday, Sept. 1, will kick off the "Boypower '76" campaign.

The campaign aims to involve one out of every three boys in scouting by 1976. Also "Boypower '76" includes the first nationwide fund-raising effort in the BSA's 62-year history. At present, the 154,322 scout units in the country exist on local contributions. The money raised in the campaign will finance the training of scout leaders for areas -- such as inner cities -- where parent volunteers and local support are scarce.

A look at the latest scout handbook, published in June 1972, reveals a new appraoch. Along with the traditional knot-tying and tent-pitching, the book informs scouts on drug abuse, urban transit, ethnic groups and ecology. In Washington, D.C. and other big cities, some scouts read comic - book-style handbooks. New merit badges reward such skills as treating rat bites and mastering subway systems.

The new program will bring changes in form as well as in content. Troops may now wear a streamlined uniform – minus the red piping, insignia and baggy pants. Instead of the wedge - shape GI hat, they may choose a red beret or a visored field cap. And because the Yankelovich survey turned up dissatisfaction with the term boy, members will now be referred to simply as scouts.

A few days from now, organized labor's kingpins will move to center-stage and take their yearly bows, accepting for America's 80 million working men and women the thanks of a Nation for a job well done.

The occasion will be Labor Day 1972.

Set aside many years ago by Congress as a day of recognition for the wage-earner, whose contributions to building America and keeping it vital go unnoticed in the day - to - day course of things, Labor Day today is taken to be the day of glory of the union bosses. They're the only ones who really get to take a bow (maybe everyone else is on vacation).

But that's not how it should be. Labor Day ought to be given back to the workers, 60 million of whom for one reason of another have decided they're better off without union bosses representing them, and who obviously don't want organized labor's cigar-chompers taking bows for them.

As a sweetner to the worker who is generally overlooked on Labor Day in favor of the union pros, something extra ought to be added: a promise that they can continue working without ever being faced with having to choose between union membership and losing their jobs.

Sixty million workers have decided against union membership. Of the fewer than 20 million who have joined, an indeterminable number are members only because they have to be.

While some unions have made tremendous contributions to the personal well-being of their members, and continue to do so, and would continue to merit membership, some unions have not. Under poor leadership they have abused the trust of their members; they have spent union funds to support partisan causes and candidates that many members oppose; they have put the members' welfare second to the building of a powerful union machine.

A National Right to Work bill would put an end to this. It would let all 80 million members of the work-force join unions if they want to, quit if they want to, or never join if that's the way they want it. To get members, union officials would have to prove the union deserves members. And the same to keep them.

So maybe this Labor Day the President's proclamation ought to issue a promise of a gift. The gift of freedom for every employee to work for a living without paying tribute to union bosses he doesn't want, and to take his own bows next Labor Day.

MIGRATION
HEADACHES

Simple population growth places ever-increasing demands on the world's resources and environment. When the population is highly mobile in addition, those demands become even greater. Thus, a key theme of the Fifth General Assembly of the International Biological Program (IBP) will be migrating man. Founded in 1964, the IBP helped to lay the groundwork for the recent U.N. Conference on the Human Environment in Stockholm. Its forthcoming assembly will get under way Wednesday, Aug. 30, in Seattle.

The urge to migrate probably is strongest in the United States, often described as a nation of immigrants. But now every section of the country is growing aware of the adverse effects of large population shifts. To preserve their own states' natural beauty, the New Mexico Undevelopment Commission and Oregon's James G. Blaine Society (two irreverent private groups) try to discourage migration from neighboring states. Vermont and New Hampshire find the influx of vacation - home seekers increasingly burdensome. And large cities everywhere find it difficult to absorb the flow of ill-educated poor people from rural areas, many of whom wind up on welfare.

Similar problems exist in other countries, and the IBP will examine some of them at its assembly. A two-day seminar on migration "will range from primitive Indians in the Amazonian jungle to Yugoslavian peasants moving from a mountain hut to a high-rise apartment overnight." Particular attention will be paid to the impact of migration on individual health, social adjustment, economic achievement, and fertility.

It is entirely possible that the freedom to migrate may be strictly limited before too long. Pete Morrison, a demographer for the Rand Corp., believes that the federal government may be forced to adopt population - distribution policies. Some localities already are discussing such measures as residency permits and migrant- entry fees. It could be that advocates of Zero Population Growth eventually will call for Minimal Population Movement as well.

The Arizona Farm Bureau Federation reports a statement by U. S. Secretary of Agriculture Earl Butz: "The American consumer now pays only 17.5 cents of each dollar for food. There's no country on the face of the earth that gets food as cheap as do the Americans. At no time in the history of this country have we bought food as cheap as that (17.5 cents)." He also said before a panel of radio broadcasters: "Take the last 15 to 20 years -- as compared to the late 1950's an hour's work today buys: 25 per cent more pork than it did 20 years ago, 20 per cent more beef, 13 per cent more potatoes, 30 per cent more milk and 40 per cent more eggs. Compared to income, food is America's best buy."

"HOT LINES" are primary community action drug abuse prevention programs. Hot lines are telephone referral, crisis-intervention services available to the community at all times. What's needed? A minimum of two telephone lines, a place to house them, qualified operators, information, professional back-up, some money.

Hot lines are first-line contacts for persons in trouble, persons who need information or those who just want to talk.

Hot lines should be manned 24 hours a day - or at a minimum, sundown to dawn.

It doesn't matter where the phones are located, or who mans them but it is important to get the word around that they exist.

Organizers of a hot line service should plan early for adequate back-up, both information and personnel. Operators should know how to reach professional resource people with one phone call -- a nurse available that moment, a doctor in the neighborhood, the town's legal aid society staff man. When things get too hot for the hot line operator, it's absolutely essential that he or she be able to get to someone who can handle the problem as quickly as possible, preferably while the caller is still on the line.

One final note: Keep good records of calls received, nature of the problem, action taken and any special circumstances. Do not record names; use numbers or some other code. Protect the identity of the caller. These records can be helpful in seeking funds (by documenting the need), opening up other community services (many calls asking for something you do not have), targeting drug abuse trends (increasing number of alcohol-related calls), and providing valuable clues to and improvement of the service.

GETTING TOGETHER

Individualism is the heart and soul of freedom. Individual rights are the cornerstone of limited constitutional government, as set forth by our Forefathers. The right of individuals to pursue their own destinies is inherent in a free society, but there are times when individuals must get together in a common cause to preserve that free society.

Now, 1972, is such a time! We have seen our President pay homage to the two faces of communism; we have seen the first peacetime wage- price freeze in our nation's history and we have seen evidence of a coming guaranteed annual income, among other things. We must get together and stop this ride down the rocky road to ruin.

Wondrous things can be done through resisting as a group. The story of the Turking prisoners in Korea, as told by Dr. William E. Mayer, is a fine example: There were 229 Turks and the communist commandant started to tell them what to do. A Turkish major stepped forward, saying, "It's not necessary to tell them, I'm in the command, tell me!"

The communist put the major in Camp no. 2, an isolation camp for "reactionary individualists." The same answer was given by the Turks until only privates were left. When the communist spoke, the oldest private answered, "I'm the senior private. It's not necessary to tell them, tell me."

Finally, all 229 men were together again in Camp no. 2. And they all came home. If these Turkish soldiers could accomplish this, think what free Americans could do if they got together.

Kremlin Caper:
Angry American Seamen
Charge Soviet Doublecross
By Victor Riesel

WASHINGTON -- Offstage a seagoing drama is being played which could affect this national election. As prologue there is the fact that the Soviet Union now is desperately short of bread and characteristically long on gall. All over Europe these past few weeks--including word from those who cross into East Berlin regularly--I heard how truly hungry are much of the Russian rural people and how emaciated are their cattle.

Of all this there is little doubt, as I learned from excellent sources during long conversations in West Berlin and later in London. On my return here last week I discovered that the American public did not know what already was documented knowledge in some European labor, trade and intelligence circles:

There would have been sharp hunger in some Soviet regions if tens of thousands of tons of American grain had not been pouring into the U.S.S.R. for at least two months now. So disturbed was Communist Party General Secretary Leonid Brezhnev over the scarcity of all grains that he began ordering late last spring the immediate shipment from the U.S. without waiting for the second major conference with our Secretary of Commerce Pete Peterson scheduled and held early in August.

Small wonder. There are reports that two Russian truck drivers were sentenced to a year in a prison work camp for dumping several loads of stale and moldy bread loaves.

Thus at the end of June American grain began leaving Great Lakes and Gulf ports--not in American ships but in what are called "third flag" freighters. These have been chartered by the Russians, I'm told by U. S. Dept. of Commerce officials, "FOB"--freight on board. Thus the U.S.S.R. foreign trade purchasing trust was getting itself a bargain despite its pledge to throw some of the cargo business to the American Merchant Marine which has lost 50 percent of its trade. Or, in other terms, has lost sufficient business to force it to lay off some 30,000 American seamen in recent years. "Third flag" ships operate on mighty low wage scales compared with what the American seafarer has won.

Patiently the American Longshoremen loaded the breadstuff. Patiently the American unions of seagoing men waited for the Soviets to fulfill the promise they made to Peterson's colleague Andrew Gibson, Assistant Secretary of Commerce for Domestic and International Business--a promise which Andy passed on to the AFL-CIO waterfront unions: "I can assure you that for every Russian ship used there will be an American ship used."

In all, this would have created some 30,000 U.S. maritime jobs--a lot of "bread" for Americans. The full grain deal, which still is to be signed officially, calls for $750 million worth of the stuff or about 10 million tons. So the U.S. unions watched the Kremlin charter third- flag freighters to carry a million tons, two million and finally last week the total came to 3.5 million tons, or over a third of the huge deal which was to have revived dockside prosperity in the U.S.

And not one of the "booked" freighters was American. Suddenly it became obvious that technically the Soviets were not going to break their promise to use one U.S. vessel for every U.S.S.R. cargo carrier hauling the wheat.

They were just not going to use any Russian freighters on this run. Thus they would not have to match one for one with American craft.

The Kremlin has lots of runs for its freighters. They still push war supplies into North Vietnam by devious routes and ruses. They still carry military hardware to their clients in Cuba and away from Egypt. They still serve several client countries and friends in Africa and Latin America. And they still operate a heavy ocean bridge to India and Asia.

So they can use their freighters elsewhere and charter low-wage craft from such nations as Liberia or even Poland. If they keep this up they save a differential of some $30 million on the whole deal--they have their bread and eat it, too.

But no "bread" for American sailors. Not yet. Thus their promise of a 50-50 deal means nothing if they don't use Red ships or give a third of the business to American shippers.

About 12 days ago American resentment developed a razor-edged anger. Word came that three, possibly four, Russian ships were heading down the St. Lawrence to pick up grain in Chicago and other Great Lakes ports.

These have turned into the most phantom ships I've ever covered. Unions such as the International Longshoremen's Assn. and the National Maritime Union (NMU) (both AFL-CIO) charged the Red craft were steaming in but would never be allowed to pick up soy beans or any other grain--without charters first being signed for an equal number of American craft.

The Commerce Dept. claims there were no ships. AFL-CIO vice president and NMU president Joe Curran dashed off a telegram to President Nixon to alert him of possible trouble--meaning wide picketing.

The Russian ships, phantom or real, put back out to sea. So the Soviets play their traditional artful dodger game. We have a big grain surplus. We can use the money to ease our deficit in the balance of payments. The Russians need the grain for bread and cattle feed. They have, in effect, promised to continue buying possibly upward of $1 billion annually. But they won't pay the extra freight charges for American ships if they can help it. This is angering maritime unions which have practically pledged to endorse President Nixon right after Labor Day. These unions could go neutral. That's Act One. We'll now wait for curtain raiser on Act Two--word from Moscow.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON – The Justice Department must soon decide whether to investigate alleged criminal violations in the election of Rep. John Rooney, D-N.Y., who has immense power over the department because of his tight hold on its purse strings.

The cantankerous Rooney heads the House Appropriations subcommittee, which decides how much money the Justice Department can spend. Thus, Attorney General Richard Kleindienst will face the dilemma of subpoenaing the hand that feeds him.

The election case grows out of the bitter Democratic primary, which Rooney won by a disputed 890 votes. The loser, ex -Rep. Allard Lowenstein, has been calling for a new election.

He has pressed his case in the state courts. But now he is going into federal court with allegations against the Rooney machine that would make a Tammany Hall wardheeler blush.

For example, Rooney's nephew James and James's wife Beatrice are both shown on voting records as voting twice. When we reached them at their home across the street from their famous uncle, they insisted they had voted only once. If a second vote was cast in their name, they said, it was not done by them.

"There has been a foul -up somewhere," said James Rooney, a florist.

We also have copies of an official -looking postcard with "Primary Election Notice" printed on it. But on the back is an advertisement for Rooney's slate. The bulk rate Post Office permit was issued not to the Board of Elections, the seeming source of the card, but to the pro- Rooeny Pioneer Regular Democratic Club of Brooklyn.

FEDFRAL VIOLATION

Political ads with no reference to their sponsor violate the federal criminal code.

We have also learned that New York Board of Elections Commissioner Gumersindo Martinez, whose job it is to keep elections fair, boomed Rooney from a sound truck a few days before the primary.

He assured us this wouldn't interfere with his impartiality in dealing with the election. He had campaigned for Rooney on his own time, Martinez explained, because his wife ran as a committeewoman on the Rooney ticket.

We also have affidavits telling how supposedly neutral poll inspectors were assigned by the Rooney machine. Rooney himself, according to testimony, belabored Lowenstein poll workers twice when he visited a polling place.

When Lowenstein levers were broken in Puerto Rican and black areas where Lowenstein was strong, there's evidence they weren't fixed for long periods. Lowenstein plans to charge racial discrimination in his federal suit.

In one Lowenstein area, Rep. Paul McCloskey, R- Calif., was conducting a get-out-the vote campaign. He swears the lines were so slow that some 40 voters simply left.

A special deputy attorney general for New York has sworn that one Spanish -speaking woman arrived at the polls only to find that someone had forged her name on her voting card.

There's no reason to believe Rooney was personally aware of all that his supporters were doing at the polls. But it will be interesting to see what the Justice Department does about the allegations.

Footnote: A finding of fraudulent election would mean Rooney must run again. Rooney could not be reached for comment.

STANS'S FRIENDS

President Nixon's chief money raiser, Maurice Stans, has accused Democratic Congressmen of pressuring the General Accounting Office to rush the release of a controversial report charging the Republicans with election law violations.

Our own investigation indicates that the real pressure came from Stans, himslef, who pulled strings to delay publication of the GAO audit temporarily.

The report had been scheduled for release on the day President Nixon was renominated. Stans apparently didn't want the President's triumph spoiled by an embarrassing report. Taking advantage of the friendship of two key GAO officials, Stans personally intervened to hold up the release.

He telephoned Comptroller General Elmer Staats and GAO elections chief Phil Hughes to ask them to hold off. Both men had worked under Stans when he ran the Bureau of the Budget for the late President Eisenhower.

Indeed, Stans gave both of them promotions. Staats became Stans's deputy director and Hughes was promoted to be deputy legislative chief. Stans also served in the late 1960s on a personal consultant panel for Staats.

In talking to Staats and Hughes a week ago Tuesday, Stans said he had additional information and asked them to delay the report to include it.

Actually, Stans had been questioned by GAO investigators on several earlier occasions. But his last -minute tactics worked and the embarrassing audit was held up for four days.

After the GAO report belatedly hit the headlines. Stans charged that it had been rushed into print as a result of pressure from Democratic congressmen. But Stans's office wouldn't name any of the Democratic congressmen nor provide us with any details. Stans himself refused to talk to us.

Footnote: The GAO report charged the Republicans with 11 possible or apparent violations fo the new campaign reporting law, involving a total of $350,000 in campaign contributions.

NEW YORK (AP) — Jumping to conclusions:

Women are better than men at holding grudges. Partly, it's because they are not as lazy as men; partly it's because fewer things generally happen to women than to men. Because they lead more varied lives, men find it too much trouble to hug a grievance to their bosom very long. Women, who get more milage out of any situation, have more time to spend on either hate or love.

A lady reader writes in and wants to know what she can do with leftover breaded veal cutlets. Personally, I've never had to face this problem; I've always made it an iron rule of life never to let lamb or breaded veal cutlets enter my front door. The only possible thing I can think of to do with leftover breaded veal cutlets would be to use them as ship ballast, but I doubt if you could wear them out no matter how many times you sailed them around the world.

Have you ever had a pair of handcuffs around your wrists? I never have, and never want to. That may not be much of a claim to fame—the mere fact a fellow's never been in jail—but if they were still alive, it would certainly surprise a lot of my old neighbors who were sure I'd wind up in the penitentiary.

Every knowledge has its limits. For example, I've met many men who learned in the army how to sew on a button—some even felt this relieved them of any need to get married—but I have never met a man who could make and sew a buttonhole.

If we all had our lives to live over again, we'd still probably do the same things—but at least we'd be looking for an easier way to get them done, and wihout so much wear and tear on the system.

When old people unexpectedly develop a greater love and appreciation of followers, this is an unconscious sign that they are becoming more reconciled to the approach of death to themselves. They recognize in the brevity of a flower's beauty the transience of their own being in the universal scheme.

Few things make a man feel more important over nothing than the preparing of his last will and testament. And isn't it a commentary on human nature that he gets more relish figuring who he wants to leave out of it than who he wants to put in?

A master thief is one who can steal an office clock off the wall 15 minutes before quitting time without being seen.

After retirement, a man needs a good wife more than ever. Without her, how would he ever think up a sensible reason for getting out of bed in the morning at all?

No matter how sadistic your boss may seem, you can be grateful for one thing: he never comes to work whistling, as the office boy does.

Investigate Murder Of Man In St. Louis

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Police here were investigating Wednesday the shooting death of a 26-year-old ex-convict from Poplar Bluff, who was found shot in the back of the head in a St. Louis motel Tuesday.

Police identified the victim as Marvin Claude Spradling, whose nude body was found between two beds in his room at the Quality Motel by motel employes. Police said no weapon or discharged shells were found in the room.

Spradling was released in May from the Missouri Penitentiary after serving part of a three-year term for felonious assault in Butler County. At the time of his death, Spradling was free on $10,000 bond after his arrest Aug. 18 on a charge of possession of amphetamines and barbuturates.

Won't Represent Break-In Suspect

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Justice Department has given up its efforts to represent a White House aide and a Secret Service agent in connection with a $1 million civil suit filed against five men accused of bugging Democratic headquarters.

A department spokesman refused comment Wednesday when asked why the department declined to appeal the ruling of a federal judge.

U.S. Dist. Court Judge Charles Richey ruled earlier that the department could not defend White House aide Charles Colson and Alfred Wong, chief of Secret Service technical security at the White House, in connection with the civil suit because the department was investigating a criminal suit arising out of the alleged bugging incident. Defending the two men, the judge ruled, would create a conflict of interest.

Colson hired former CIA agent E. Howard Hunt, whom sources have connected with the five men arrested in the case. Wong reportedly recommended that one of the men arrested—James W. McCord—be hired by the Committee to ReElect the President as security chief.

Steal $4,000 In Chemicals

HAYTI — Chemicals worth $4,000 were stolen Wednesday night from the Helena Chemical Co. in Hayti, according to Pemiscot County Authorities.

Taken were 46 five gallon cans of Lasso and 13 cases of Lorax. Also stolen was a large-sized gold motorcycle helmet. The thieves entered by breaking in the front door.

New Financing Charges

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican charges of "devious cover-ups" have drawn Democratic claims of "nitpicking" in the latest round of accusations over presidential campaign money-handling under a new law.

While Democratic presidential nominee George S. McGovern's campaign has "attempted to hold its candidate out to the public as above reproach, his organization has in fact resorted to devious coverups in various fund raising activities," GOP National Chairman Robert J. Dole said Wednesday.

Dole called for a probe by the General Accounting Office— which the audit agency said is already under way. "I believe there is substantial evidence that the McGovern campaign apparatus has committed at least seven serious violations" of the new political finance law, Dole said in a letter to GAO.

A GAO official said, "We plan to give this the same type of treatment we gave the Republicans."

For Dole "to accuse the McGovern campaign of the kind of violations that are talked about in this letter," Mankiewicz said, "is somewhat like a man caught on the street after a bank robbery with the cash in a sack calling in the police to arrest a jaywalker he sees crossing the street. I don't think anybody is fooled by this."

Two Hurt In SeMo Accidents

Two persons were injured in two separate highway accidents Wednesday, according to reports issued by the highway patrol.

David Dee Dennis, 20, of Risco suffered a broken right leg and pelvis in a one car crash at 4:30 p.m. on Highway 62, three miles east of Risco. Dennis' car struck a concrete bridge abutment. He had to be pulled from the car, which later caught fire and burned. He was taken to Missouri Delta Community Hospital in Sikeston.

June Alice Archie, 19, of East Prairie Route Two sustained possible back injuries and broken nose and an injured arm in a two car mishap at 7:50 p.m. on Highway 77, near Dorena. The accident occurred as a car driven by P. L. Carlisle, 44, of East Prairie Route Two backed onto the highway from a drive into the path of the Archie vehicle. She was taken to Missouri Delta Community Hospital.

8 Treated Wednesday

Eight were treated Wednesday as accident patients in the emergency room of the Missouri Delta Community Hospital.

John Rhodes, 46, of Vanduser, received puncture wound of left arm at work; Simon Wofford, 24, of Parma, scratched and bruised left leg in motorcycle accident; Billy Hill, 35, McClure, Ill., cut left hand while working on machine.

Georgia Broyles, 9, New Madrid, fell at school and sprained back; Aubrey Naile, 59, Bertrand, cut head on a window; June Archie, 19, East Prairie, sprained neck, bruises nose and right elbow in car accident.

David Dennis, 20, Risco, fractured leg and received multiple cuts in car accident; Lillie Sexton, 74, Canalou, fell at home and fractured left hip.

Harrington is a graduate of Sikeston Senior High School and has been a police trainee since April 1. He is married with four children.

Minor Damage In Apartment Fire

CHARLESTON — At 6 p.m. Wednesday the fire department answered a call to 306 Center St. where minor damage was reported to an apartment occupied by Mrs. Busby. The fire started under a kitchen stove. The building is owned by the First Baptist Church.

At 1:30 a.m. today the fire department was called to Methodist Alley to distinguish a fire in a two family apartment building recently purchased by Urban Renewal. The fire started in the apartment occupied by Jesse Hull, reportedly when a dog knocked over a can of gasoline and it ignited.

One room of the Hull apartment was damaged and one room of the apartment occupied by Susie Sinks was also damaged.

1,800 Students Enroll In Malden Schools

MALDEN — The R-1 School District enrolled 1,800 students last week for the beginning of the 1972-73 school term.

The figure is just 15 students short of the total enrollment for last year, however the school usually gains several new students during the first weeks of operation.

Over-crowdedness in classrooms was eased somewhat this year with the renovating of the old elementary school building on Beckwith Street. Elementary classes were resumed in the building this year.

A breakdown of the total enrollment shows 1,008 students for the elementary, including kindergarten through the 6th grade.

The junior higher department, or 7th and 8th grades, has an enrollment of 296 students; and the senior high enrollment is 496.

The trade school, which draws students from throughout the tri-county area, opened the school term with an enrollment of 236. Included in that figure is 71 Malden students represented in the 1,800 total enrollment.

Keating-Dover

The St. Francis Xavier Catholic Church was the setting for the wedding of Miss Nancy Venita Dover and John Michael Keating Aug. 19 - at 2 p.m.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Veachel Dover of St. Charles, formerly of Sikeston. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Dale Keating of Babylon, N.Y. The Rev. Robert Schumacher performed the double ring ceremony. Wedding music was played by Mrs. Carl Schorle.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a formal length gown of organza accented by sleeves of chiffon with a floral lace edge. The detachable chapel length train of organza was edged with matching lace. Her headpiece was an elbow-length veil with chiffon rosebuds and she carried a bouquet of daisies and pink rosebuds.

Maid of honor was Miss Darlene Stephens of Sikeston and bridesmaid was Miss Christine Johnson of St. Louis. Their matching floor length gowns were of lavender satin, overlaid with chiffon, and accented by lavender and white daisies. They carried bouquets of white daisies tipped in lavender.

Eric Palmer of Babylon was best man. Groomsman was Mike Stelvleni of Jefferson City. Ushers were Bill Hopkins of Babylon, cousin of the groom, and Butch Holyfield of Sikeston, cousin of the bride. Special guests were the grooms aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. John Sullivan, of Mahopoc, N.Y.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Herb Stephens. A buffet dinner followed. Serving at the brides table were Mrs. Henry Holyfield, aunt of the bride, and Mrs. Tom Dover, sister-in-law of the bride.

Mrs. Keating is a 1969 graduate of Sikeston High School and a 1972 graduate of the Barnes Hospital School of nursing in St. Louis. Keating is a senior at the University of Missouri, Rolla where he is majoring in metallurgical engineering.

After a short honeymoon the couple will make their home in Rolla.

Ann Landers

Epileptic Should Be Invited To Wedding

Dear Ann Landers: You be the judge. Our son insists that he not be denied the right to "be himself" -- his father says, "You must learn to compromise if you're going to live in the real world." Who is right?

John walked the streets for three solid weeks looking for a job. He is 20, has decided not to go back to college (says it's a waste of time) and is a quiet boy with strong principles. John and his father have always seen things from a different point of view. I am sure John is not as radical as his father thinks he is, nor is his father as conservative as John seems to believe.

Tonight a friend of ours called to let us know that John had been in to see him about a job. Our friend told John that since he would be meeting the public he would have to trim his hair somewhat and get rid of his beard. John promptly let him know that he did not want the job if it meant submerging his personality and be something he wasn't.

A full-blown argument followed between father and son and, as is the case with most arguments, no one convinced anyone of anything. We would appreciate it if you would let us know how you feel about this. Could John have accepted the boss' terms without "selling out to the Establishment?" --For and Against

Dear F and A: When a young man goes looking for a job he should accept the fact that he is not going to make the rules or call the signals. The burden of proof is on him --not the employer. An employer who does not want a young man with long hair and a beard will not look favorably on a fellow who says "take it or leave it."

I realize there are laws against discrimination, but there are not laws against refusing to hire an applicant with a negative personality -and this is why John and others like him lose out.

Dear Ann Landers: Our daughter is marrying a boy we do not know very well. His family lives in another city. The mother of the groom sent us the guest list yesterday. We were surprised to see the name of a young cousin who is an epileptic. We don't want to spoil the wedding by exposing our guests to the unpleasant experience of witnessing a fit. What can we do except tell the woman we don't want to take the chance -----On the Spot

Dear ON: Almost all epileptics respond to drugs which control seizures. (Please don't say "fits".) The cousin should be invited. To exclude him would be an unspeakable act of cruelty.

Dear Ann Landers: Recently a column of yours created quite an argument. I refer to the one where you said it was in poor taste to print on an invitation to an anniversary party, "no gifts please."

A couple of women said you had a lot of nerve to say yes or no on such a personal matter. Frankly, I think when people ask for your opinion you have the right to tell them what you think.

And now here's another question along the same line: I received a wedding invitation last week and to it was attached a little card that said, "The bride is doing their apartment in Italiam Provincial. This might be helpful to know."

Do you consider such a message to be in good taste? Yes or no. -----Just Asking.

Dear Just: No, I do not.

Is an upcoming wedding driving you bananas? Ann Lander's comprehensive booklet, "The Bride's Guide," gives you the facts from the initial announcement to the last bill and who should pay it. To receive your copy, write to Ann Landers, in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long, self -addressed, stamped, envelope and 35c in coin.

Vaughn Signs Exclusive Contract With Trident

Robert Richard (Dick) Vaughan, Jr., formerly of Sikeston, has signed a contract with Trident Publications in New York City. He will write exclusively for Trident during the term of the contract.

Vaughan sold Trident a fictional novel which he calls, "Valcyrie Mandate," and it will be published in the fall of 1973. At the same time, Vaughan promised delivery on two more novels, written on subjects chosen by the publishers.

Another of Dick's novels called, "Heart of Nashville," will also be published in 1973. It is a fictional story about ccuntry and western entertainers, and the focal point of the story center around the country and western music and entertainer award presentations in Nashville, Tenn.

Vaughan's latest release, Brandywine's War, has been sold to television and movie producer Mark Carliner. The movie will be filmed in 1973 and is budgeted at $2 million. Vaughan is under contract to Carliner to act as technical consultant during the filming. Brandywine's War is now in stock at Britts Department Store in Kingsway Plaza Mall in Sikeston.

In addition to his novels, Dick has still found time to write feature articles for various newspapers and magazines. One such article appeared in the June issue of Aviation Digest and won both the monthly and yearly first prize award. This makes a total of six awards won by the author for articles in that magazine.

Vaughan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Vaughan, 410 Shady Lane in Sikeston is a 1955 graduate of Sikeston High School and is now living in Newport News, Va.

Charleston Urban Renewal, Housing Staffs Combine

CHARLESTON — Staffs of the Charleston urban renewal and public housing agencies have been combined and the boards of the two agencies will be combined over the next 14 months, according to George Simmons, chairman of the Land Clearance for Redevelopment Authority (Urban Renewal Board).

Simmons said the housing authority office on West Ada Street was closed and the staff moved to the Urban Renewal office on West Commercial Street.

Tanna Parish, executive director of urban renewal, becomes director of the joint agency, with Richard Logan, former housing authority director as his assistant director, specializing in housing affairs.

The Ada Street building will be used as housing authority maintenance headquarters.

A rent collection office has been opened in the new community center, 106 West Iron Bank Road, built as part of the housing complex for the elderly.

Although the staffs have consolidated for purposes of greater efficiency and better coordination, Simmons said, the two boards will remain separate legal entities.

The appointment of housing authority member Bill Purnell to the Urban Renewal board, following the recent resignation of Coy Franklin, is the first step in consolidating the two boards, Simmons said.

As terms of members of the two boards expire, he said, the Charleston mayor will be asked to appoint members of the other body to fill the vacancies. For example, he said, next spring two members of the Housing Authority are due to step down. Their places will be taken by members of the Urban Renewal board. Within 14 months the two boards should have the same membership, Simmons said, although they will remain separate for legal purposes.

At present, the members of the Housing Authority are Chairman Jack Carson, William Purnell, Milton Clack, Rowe Powell and Herbert Marshall. The Urban Renewal Authority includes Chairman Simmons, Purnell, Layton Pickard, James Moran and Willie Hart.

Gets $4.39 An Hour For 'Head Swamping'

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — There is unrest in the rest rooms at Tinker Air Force Base.

An Oklahoma City newspaper, the Oklahoma City Times, reported today it had received a letter from a civilian mechanic at the base with 22 years of experience who complained that he was routinely assigned to clean the latrines.

The specialist, who asked not to be identified, said he considers the job "kind of degrading."

He isn't the only skilled worker assigned the janitorial task. A number of journeymen in the aircraft division have been assigned similar duties.

The complainer, with a WG-10 government job rating, gets $4.39 an hour for "head swamping" but a Tinker spokesman said it's all part of an effort to save money.

"We can only have so many people, and we'd rather keep the mechanics than the janitors," said the spokesman. The janitorial force has been reduced by what he termed "austerity funding."

Lowell Malley, president of Local 916, American Federation of Government Employes at Tinker, said other employes at the vast airbase also are complaining.

"It doesn't help morale at all," he said, "It's one of my pet peeves."

The Tinker spokesman said the mechanic's rotating hour-a- day work in the rest room for five days once every five weeks is part of the base's "self- help" program.

Six other workers in the crew also rotate on the same work.

The complainer said he is used to lunchroom cleanup, a routine since he started to work at Tinker in 1950.

"But it seems to me this other kind of job is degrading," he said. "I just know that somewhere on Tinker Field there are some lesser- skilled people to do this work."

WG-2s, normally assigned custodial duties, are paid $2.74 an hour.

Kenneth Stinnett, chief steward for Local 916, said, "It's been quite a thorn in our side and it looks to us like a waste of money in utilization of journeymen mechanics to do this type of work."

Asians' Suffer From Wet Summer

TOKYO (AP) — Filipino villagers carrying lighted candles waded waist- deep in swirling flood waters, praying for divine help. In Japan, a one- year- old baby was dug from the mud, chortling and unhurt.

A 12- story luxury apartment house in Hong Kong collapsed under the pounding of thousands of tons of rain-weakened earth. A British attorney, pinned in the debris, calmly directed rescue workers.

In South Korea, U.S. Army and Air Force helicopters and trucks helped save the lives of more than 3,400 people in flooded cities.

Scenes of misery, suffering and bravery were commonplace in much of he Far East this wet summer as torrential rains touched off floods and landslides that destroyed hundreds of thousands of dwellings.

By today the death toll had reached 1,384. Damage mounted into the hundreds of millions of dollars. The poverty or modest circumstances of most of the victims living in low- lying areas or hillside squatter villages kept it from being much higher.

Four areas were hit hardest; the Philippines, with 454 dead; South Korea, 398 dead and 130 missing; Japan, 370 dead, 67 missing; and Hong Kong, 162 dead.

Heavy rains also pounded China, flooding Peking, but no figures were available on casualties or damage.

Monsoons are the prevailing winds in East Asia that bring up to half a year of wet weather. Typhoons are the vast wind and rainstorms that lash the western Pacific during the summer and autumn. Born in the area near Guam, they sometimes reach 150 miles an hour and may cover an area half the size of the United States. There are as many as 35 each year.

This year's rains began taking their toll in mid- June, triggering disastrous landslides in the British colony of Hong Kong, where many of the 5 million inhabitants live on steep hillsides.

The rain totaled more than 60 inches in three days, the heaviest in Hong Kong's history. Landslides buried 78 squatters' huts in Kowloon, on the mainland, the usual aftermath of a heavy rain in Hong Kong.

But this time Victoria Peak, the home of the rich on Hong Kong Island, was also hit. A new building near the top collapsed, setting off a chain-reaction slide of mud and structures in which four buildings were brought down.

Henry Litton, a leading attorney, was found alive in the rubble, one foot pinned by a heavy beam. Chatting calmly with his rescuers, he drank water and ate food while a buzz saw set him free.

Nearly 5,000 other homes had to be evacuated.

For two weeks in July, the rains bore down on Japan.

An irrigation canal overflowed with a roar in the middle of the night, crushing the home of the Matsumoto family and burying one- year-old Kazumi and two of his grandparents. Another grandparent groped in the mud and felt something soft. It was Kazumi, crying as he was pulled free, then laughing.

The Construction Ministry estimated that the rains, which struck Southwest Japan hardest, caus d $472 million in property dan age.

In the Philippines a month of rains ravaged 13 provinces on Luzon Island and set back the economy at least two or three years, government economists said.

Damage to crops and property was estimated at more than $450 million whilethe cost in human suffering was incalculable.

People stranded on rooftops fought for food dropped from U.S. Air Force helicopters. Babies died because they could not eat the high- nutrient buns that were one of the chief relief food items.

Police were given shoot- to-kill orders against looters.

The worst South Korean floods in 47 years left Seoul and other cities awash last weekend and made 300,000 homeless. Nearly 500,000 government workers, high school and college students and militiamen repaired dikes, cleared debris and cleaned clogged sewage systems.

To Test Auto Air Bag System

WASHINGTON (AP) — The controversial auto safety air cushion system is about to get its first government testing under actual highway driving conditions.

Secretary of Transportation John Volpe Monday accepted for delivery to the General Services Administration 125 Mercury model four-door sedans equipped with factory installed air cushion systems.

These will get 18 months of testing in Los Angeles, Salt Lake City, Miami, Fla., San Antonio, Tex., and Buffalo, N.Y. The cities were chosen as representative of widely differing driving conditions and because of their nearness to accident investigation teams sponsored by the National Highway Traffic Safety.

The passive restraint may be required on all autos built after Aug. 15, 1975, if the tests prove out. To date, air bags appear to be the only system that will meet the requirements by the 1975 operational deadline.

The air cushion passive restraint system in the test cars is provided only for the passenger in the right front seat, but all seating positions have lap belts.

Dear Mr. Blanton,

Jack Anderson's gratuitous slander of Tom Eagleton simply verified my opinion of him — he seems to have NO concern about the truth, but merely writes what will sell; he has no concern for people, but wants to sell his column regardless of hurting anyone.

Your editorial policy should be concerned both with the truth and the good of people. Continuing to run his column militates against both concerns.

I too, am sorry about the very bad reporting of Tom Eagleton, but please don't drop Jack Anderson's column. I find it well written and very informative. Thank you.

"P.S." — He said he was sorry for not checking out the facts. Give him another chance. I like the current writing about the turbulent political bugging incident at the Democratic National Headquarters.

Cards Continue To Deal

ST. LOUIS (AP) — "It's part of the game," a smiling Dal Maxvill said. "You have to be prepared for it. I've had fun here, now I'll have fun there."

Maxvill's words came only minutes after the 33-year-old shortstop, a 10-season veteran with the St. Louis Cardinals, was traded Wednesday to the Oakland A's of the American League.

It marked still another in a series of moves designed by general manager Bing Devine to restructure the Cards and left only two holdovers from the 1965-67-68 club pennant winners.

"It sure seems like time has gone fast," said the slim Maxvill, who became the Cards' regular shortstop in 1966 and held the post through most of seven seasons despite a light bat.

Rated among the top fielding shortstops in the National League, Maxvill had compensated for a .219 career batting mark with glove work that included an N.,.-leading .982 fielding average at his position in 1970.

"The time has come for us to look ahead," said Devine, whose deal was the fifth he has negotiated with Oakland. "We have a lot of young players, some of them the best we've ever had, and we might as well find out what they can do."

Only 72 hours earlier the Cards had sent veteran Matty Alou to the A's for outfielder Bill Voss and a minor league pitcher.

This time the Cards got firstyear infielder Joe Lindsey, who was hitting .259 in 36 games at Birmingham of the Southern League and a player to be named later.

"I can understand that," Maxvill said in regard to Devine's plans. "I'm 33, and they want players that can be with them in the future."

Maxvill's departure leaves only Bob Gibson and Lou Brock from the Cards' 68 N.L. champions.

Picture Day

Saturday has been set as picture day for the Sikeston high school football team.

The entire squad and coaches will be in dress uniforms for pictures beginning at 8 a.m.

Any parent, relative or member of news media desiring photos are urged to take them at this time.

Marksman A Surprise

MUNICH (AP) — It was the best of days for one sharpshooter. It was very nearly the worst of days for 10 others. It was the bitterest of days for one high flyer. It was the sweetest of days for another.

"I don't spend 30 hours a week at a hobby," John Writer said Wednesday after winning the three-position small-bore riflery and setting a bit of American Olympic history. "This is a sport. Real competition."

By winning the gold medal at these 20th Summer Games, the 27-year-old Chicago marksman gave the United States its second shooting medal, the first time the United States has won more than one in the traditionally European-dominated sport.

Writer scored a world and Olympic record 1,166 points out of a possible 1,200 in the prone, kneeling and standing positions. And the United States got its third shooting medal when Lanny Bassham of Comanche, Tex., an Army marksmanship instructor at Ft. Benning, Ga., got the silver, finishing behind Writer with 1,157 points.

Vic Auer of North Hollywood, Calif., had gotten America's first shooting medal of the Games on Monday, taking a silver in the small-bore prone competition.

The 10 other sharpshooters are known collectively as the U.S. basketball team, whose supremacy of the game in the Olympics very nearly came to an end Wednesday.

"We needed a game like this where we had to come from behind," Coach Hank Iba said of his kids after they rallied from seven points down in the second half to pull out a 61-54 triumph over Brazil.

The victory was the fourth for the Yanks, now undefeated in 59 contests stretching back to the 1936 Berlin Games, when the sport was introduced to the Olympics.

The bitter high-flyer was Bob Seagren, America's premiere pole vaulter, angered over what he called "obviously a political decision" on the part of the International Amateur Athletic Federation to outlaw his green vaulting pole for the Games.

The pole, with a newer weave of fiberglass than the old ones, came out last year and Seagren, rebounding from knee surgery, used it to set his world record of 18 feet 5¾ inches.

After he set the record last month, the IAAF banned the pole saying it hadn't been available for world-wide use.

On Monday, the IAAF reversed itself, reinstating the pole. On Wednesday the federation reversed itself again. "It's a personal vendetta against me and against America," said the angry Seagren of Monterey Park, Calif.

Seagren got a bit of good news—and Sweden a bit of disastrous news—when it was announced that his stiffest competitor for the gold, Kjell Isaksson, would not compete because of groin and leg injuries.

The happiest high-flyer was Vladimir Vasin, a Moscow University economics student who won the gold in springboard diving, ending a 60-year U.S. domination of the three-meter event.

"For years the Americans have been the best divers in the world," said the handsome 25year-old Russian. "But now we have come to the conclusion that they are not gods and that we can compete with them."

Craig Lincoln of Hopkins, Minn., rallied from sixth place on his final two dives to win the bronze behind Italy's Franco Cagnotto.

In the four swimming finals, the United States wound up with one gold, two silvers and a bronze. That, along with the rest of the day's competition, gave America 22 medals thus far—seven gold, nine silver and six bronze. Second in the standings is East Germany with 15 medals, five of them gold.

Four U.S. gals combined to get the lone water gold, winning the women's 400-meter freestyle relay in a worldrecord time of 3:55.19.

Shirley Babashoff of Fountain Valley, Calif., was the heroine as she covered the final 100 meters in a sizzling 58.18 seconds to overtake East German anchor swimmer Kornelia Ender.

Japan swept the men's gymnastics with Sawao Kato copping the gold.

Grid Rules Discussed

DEXTER — Football coaches and officials were guests of the Dexter public schools Tuesday evening for a football rules interpretation meeting under the direction of Leon Marler, one of the district's top high school grid officials and Missouri State High School Activities Association interpreter.

A total of 18 rules changes or additions were discussed and five present rules were emphasized during the hour and a half session.

Rule 9-1-2 provides that an offensive player who is outside the free blocking zone at the snap may not block a defensive man below the waist in an area 3 yards behind each scrimmage extending laterally the width of the field if such block is toward the spot of the snap.

This new rule was the only one that was discussed at length and seemed to cause some concern with the majority of the coaches present.

(The Rule)

Rule 9-1-2 (page 44) -- New rule provides that an offensive player who is outside the FREE BLOCKING ZONE at the snap may not block a defensive man below the waist in an area 3 yards behind each scrimmage extending laterally the width of the field if such block is toward the spot of the snap.

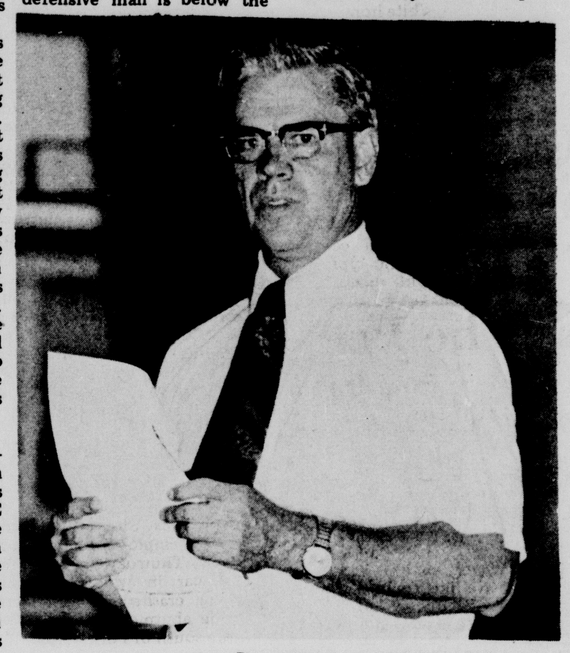
1. The 6 yard "belt" extends from sideline to sideline and remains in effect throughout the down or until the ball is advanced beyond that area toward B's goal line.

2. Restrictions apply:

a. To offensive players who are outside the free blocking zone at the snap.

b. Only to blocks that occur in the 6 yard "belt" extending from sideline to sideline.

c. Only to blocks where the initial contact with the defensive man is below the waist and the force of the block is toward the spot from which the snap was made.



Leon Marler

3. There are no restrictions under this rule in the following situations:

a. For blockers who are in the free blocking zone at the snap.

b. For blocks that occur outside the 6 yard "belt".

c. If the force of the block is away from the spot from which the snap was made.

d. For blocks where the initial contact is above the waist of the defensive man.

e. Anytime the ball is advanced beyond the belt toward B's goal line.

4. The wing officials are primarily responsible for observing the crack- back block on their side.

a. Referee may have to help in some situations.

b. Must determine whether block was toward snap, away from snap or straight down field.

c. If offensive man positioned outside opponent, he is suspect.

5. Coaching point - if man blocks to the inside, initial contact must be above waist; if to the outside or head on, may be above or below waist.

6. Foul for illegal block, 15 yard penalty.

MUNICH (AP) — Special high holiday services for Jewish competitors in the Olympic Games have been arranged at the Olympic Village chapel.

Services are scheduled for the night of Sept. 8 and for the morning of Sept. 9 by the Israeli delegation. No competiton involving Israelis is scheduled to last beyond sundown Sept. 8 when the eight- day religious period for Jews begins.

MUNICH (AP) — Lt. Col. Bill McMillan keeps having trouble with name mixups as a member of U.S. Olympic Teams. He won a gold medal for rapid fire pistol shooting in 1960, and now is taking part in his fifth Olympics.

At one time, people kept knocking on his door when trying to find Bob McMillan, a middle distance runner.

MUNICH (AP) — "All kids are hard to coach now days," U.S. Olympic Basketball Coach Henry Iba says.

The 68- year- old Iba, coaching in his third consecutive Olympics, had been asked if younger players — this is the youngest U.S. Olympic team ever — are harder to coach than older athletes.

The trouble, he said, lies with "fathers, mothers, school teachers and ministers."

What's The Law?

The Case Of The Charred Romance

By Jack Strauss, LL.B.

Ella and Peter lived in a small town where every romance generated gossip of epidemic proportion. Consequently, to avoid wagging tongues, when Ella and Peter fell in love, Peter drove Ella to a neighboring town where he registered with her at a motel as man and wife.

And while things got pretty hot that night, it wasn't due to their romance. It was due to the negligence of the motel owner who carelessly, and inconsiderably, caused the motel to burn to the ground.

Suffering severe burns, to say nothing of their charred romance, Ella and Peter sued the owner of the motel for their injuries.

"It was horrible," they told the judge. "Flames jumped at us like we were marshmellows. As his guests, the motel owner had a duty to protect us from being toasted. He had an obligation to exercise care for our safety."

"Guests my foot," was the answer. "Having registered at my motel under false pretenses as man and wife, they were trespassers and not guests. Under the circumstances, I owed them no duty whatsoever."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you find that Peter and Ella were guests of the motel so as to allow them to collect for their injuries?

This is how the judge ruled: YES! The judge held that false registration at a hotel does not affect the status of the occupants as guests of the hotel owner.

Dear Dr. Lamb — Can you tell me what tests can be taken for tuberculosis besides chest X rays to determine whether a case is arrested or active?

Dear Reader — Chest X rays certainly help. In addition, skin testing is thought to be important by some doctors in assessing the status of tuberculosis and, of course, there are numerous cultures that can be taken. One of the most common of these is to collect sputum specimens and then samples of the sputum are streaked over a culture medium (the food material for the bacteria) and set away to see if germs will grow.

Basically, you could almost say that the bacteria are planted like seeds and then you wait to see if they grow out. If there is no growth you assume there weren't any seeds, or in this case no bacteria.

In addition to the frequent sputum samples for tuberculosis cultures, blood cultures can be taken and the urine can be tested. The urine is often tested to see if the tuberculosis involves the kidney.

Incidentally, tuberculosis can involve other parts of the body besides the lungs and for this reason X rays of other parts of the body are sometimes helpful, including those of the skeleton. Principally by the use of cultures and X rays one can determine fairly accurately whether a case of tuberculosis is truly active or not.

Dear Dr. Lamb — When I was 18 my family doctor found a heart murmur. He sent me to a heart specialist who took some tests and said it wasn't serious. Then three years later, I went to another doctor and he discovered that the heart murmur was caused by pulmonary stenosis and said I should be checked every six months. He thinks it should be getting better, but it remains the same. Can you enlighten me further to explain what this is?

Dear Reader — If that indeed is what you have, it's a defect that you were born with. The blood that flows out from the right muscular chamber of the heart is pumped to the lungs for oxygenation. The entire amount of our unoxygenated blood must go to the lungs through the pulmonary artery. If there is an obstruction to the outflow of blood to the pulmonary artery it is called pulmonary stenosis. The obstruction can be of the pulmonary valve itself or it can involve the overgrowth of the heart muscle tissue at the outlet below the pulmonary valve.

If surgery is needed the surgeon simply enters the heart and opens the obstructed valve or cuts away the excess muscular tissue directly underneath the valve. These operations have been done for many years and are highly successful. Of course, if the obstruction is minimal, then you don't need to have the surgery. I would guess from the innocuous sound of your history that you have been getting along fairly well and this is probably why your doctor hasn't recommended doing anything else.

Viet 1st On Agenda

HONOLULU (AP) — President Nixon, beginning a round of mid- Pacific conferences today, put Vietnam first on the agenda, then a bid for a billion - dollar economic transfusion from Japan.

Before opening formal summit talks with visiting Japanese Prime Minister Kakuei Tanaka, Nixon set aside the morning for a Vietnam review with Ellsworth Bunker, U. S. Ambassador to Saigon.

The President and Mrs. Nixon were on hand at Hickam Air Force base - a major target of Japan's 1941 attack that brought the United States into World War II to welcome the stocky Tanaka, who was installed as prime minister only last month.

The President and his advisers hope two days of sessions with Tanaka will produce a formal agreement by Japan to place an extra billion dollars on orders for American goods ranging from jet aircraft to feed grain.

Actually, the U. S. government would like Japan to up the ante to $2 billion, but preliminary talks in Tokyo indicated the lesser amount was more likely.

Americans currently are buying Japanese goods worth $3.8 billion more than they are selling to the Japanese each year. This imbalance is one factor behind the weakness of the dollar in international money markets.

Nixon and Tanaka will also talk about developing ties between their two countries and China.

While in Hawaii, the President and Mrs. Nixon are scheduling some activities that presumably could benefit the chief executive's campaign for a second term. Mrs. Nixon, for example, was to spend more than seven hours today on the island of Hawaii, visiting good-works projects and being feted at an evening luau.

The Nixons, in what was regarded as at least a semi-political event, spent an hour Wednesday night shaking hands with about 600 Hawaii business, political and civic leaders at the oceanside estate of long -time Republican Clare Boothe Luce.

Nixon's schedule for today was confined solely to official business, however.

A CROWD of more than 1,500 persons and hundreds of cars lined the southbound lane of Interstate 55 from highway 51 overpass to the reviewing stand yesterday southwest of Perryville for the dedication of the new section of highway. The 29 mile stretch from Fruitland to Brewer completes the Missouri's part of Interstate 55 except for the 15 mile stretch below Hayti expected to open late in 1974.

Armed Robbers Sought

EAST PRAIRIE — Two white men, one armed with a shotgun and the other with a knife, held up the attendant of Bill McKinley's Package Liquor Store, Highway 105, early today.

According to Deputy Sheriff Jack Ivie, Richard Farquahar, the attendant said the men entered the store at 6:35 a.m. and demanded the money from the cash register while holding the gun and knife on him. An estimated $130 was taken from the register and $14 of Farquahar's money was taken from him.

Reportedly Farquahar was struck on the head with the butt of the shotgun and threatened with the knife after telling the men he could not open the store safe and he was locked in the cooler.

One of the men was described as being in his late 20's or early 30's, six foot, three inches tall, blonde, and wearing blue levis and a white and green shirt. He had a scar on the left side of his face running from the earlobe just under eye to his nose.

The other man was described as five foot, nine inches tall, 150 pounds, dark complexion and wearing a black flat top type hat.

In New Madrid County

Solid Waste Plans Approved

NEW MADRID — Engineering plans and specifications for a proposed county solid waste disposal area have been approved by the director of the bureau of solid waste management of the state division of health.

The disposal area is an 80-acre site purchased by the county on Highway 62, two miles west of Highway 61. It is designed to receive 30 tons of household, commercial, agricultural and demolition waste per day.

Utilizing approximately three acres annually, the sanitary landfill will serve the county for a period of 20 years.

The site has been termed excellent for solid waste disposal by the State Geological Survey and Water Resources who made soil analyses.

Plans call for the county-owned acreage to be leased to a private contractor, who will develop the area according to specifications required by the state division of health, furnish equipment and machinery and operate the system.

The county will construct an all weather access road through the site from north to south.

The sanitary landfill will utilize a trench method of operation. Trenches will be excavated to a depth of approximately six feet. Solid waste will be compacted to two feet in depth and covered daily with six inches of soil.

Three 20- foot sections of movable fence will be constructed for use near the landfill operating area for control of blowing paper and debris. A perimeter fence will be provided if controlling the access to the site or blowing of litter off the site becomes a problem.

Development of the area could begin within 60 days after contract and lease arrangements are made.

Gene Curtis of Matthews, appointed sanitary landfill technician by the county court, will supervise the landfill program.

Improvement Priorities Under Study

Sikeston Girds For New Growth

By RON PORTER

In 10 years Sikeston will have 25,000 people, more industry, more business, and a lot of problems.

But the problems won't be as great if City Manager Jim Huff and the Planning and Zoning Commission have their way.

The planning and zoning commission is now undertaking an extensive two month study of the Huff's expenditure- revenue study. The study might be called the Sikeston Shopping List. It includes just about everything ever proposed for Sikeston.

"We can't do everything at one time," vice chairman Shad Old said in an interview this week. Old, who is chairing the commission until a permanent chairman can be elected, has asked the commission to draw up a list of priorities from the proposals listed in the study.

Also being considered are the sources of revenue open to the city. When the revenue source is decided upon the city will be able to decide which of the improvements it wants and can afford.

Old said Huff's study is in response to the anticipated growth that will come with the completion of I-55 and the Mississippi River bridge at Cairo.

Sikeston is the growth center of the Bootheel, he said. The proof is in the Kingsway Plaza Mall opening here, the major motel chains building here and major business of other types moving in.

Charles Matthews of the Sikeston Industrial Development Commission would probably agree. He says businesses seeking new locations are showing an increased interest in Sikeston. Two or three businesses per month are looking at the city as a site for expansion.

Among the proposals in the Huff study are upgrading the police and fire departments, improvements in roads, sanitation, and storm drains, a new refuse disposal system, expanded recreation facilities, improvements at the airport, and in the administrative offices and the industrial development program.

Funding sources include a sales tax, liquor tax, cigarette tax (not recommended by Huff) and various fee increases.

Within one year to 18 months, Old said the city will need a new site for disposing of its garbage. Within 18 months to three years the city will have a unified garbage pickup system and will eliminate open burning within the city. This will be required under federal law, he said.

The city will need a third fire station on the north side, Old added. When it will be needed hasn't been decided yet, he said. Huff's study suggested 1976 as the target date.

Huff's study suggests land acquisition through 1976 for new and expanded parks at West End, Clayton, Scenic Waterway, compress, southeast, Northside, and Murray Lane Parks. An indoor swimming pool to be jointly used by the high school and the community is also proposed for 1973-74, although Huff says this date is probably overly optimistic.

A bookmobile to extend library service to shut- ins and individuals without transportation is suggested for 1975. A building expansion is proposed for 1976 and the addition of individual study areas in the library is proposed for 1977.

Runway extension, improvement and lighting at the airport is suggested for 1974.

A sales tax, according to Huff, would bring in $320,000 a year. The amount would increase as the city expands.

A utility tax would bring in as much as $274,000. A gas tax increase, $32,000; service charges, $9,500; storm drain fees, $10,000. Auto license increases, $9,000, a cigarette tax, $45,000; and a liquor tax, $5,000.

Old said there will be no tax increase without a vote of Sikeston residents.

Construction Equipment Stolen Here

Theives broke into a building behind the new Burger King restaurant on East Malone late Tuesday or early Wednesday and took $1,549 worth of construction equipment.

The equipment belonged to the Drury Construction Company of Cape Girardeau. The company is building the restaurant.

Taken were a welder, a cutting torch, 150 feet of wire and several smaller items.

Police said the theives broke in through a window, and opened a large door in the back of the building. They then backed a truck into the building and loaded on the stolen items.

Eagleton Favors VP Selection Change

CAPE GIRARDEAU, Mo. (AP) — Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton, who was greeted by enthusiastic crowds Wednesday while stumping for Democratic candidates during a tour of southeastern Missouri, said there should be a better method of selecting the vice presidential candidate.

Eagleton, who withdrew earlier this month as the Democratic vice presidential nominee, proposed at a luncheon here that the nation's second highest office should have its candidates chosen only after the presidential nominee has had "ten thoughtful, reflective, quiet days to pick his men."

The Missouri Democrat said such a system would prevent presidential nominees "from hastily reaching a decision."

Asked about a comment made Tuesday by Mrs. McGovern that the true story of Eagleton's resignation had not yet been told, Eagleton laughed and said, "There are a lot of things I am going to divulge when I write my book."

Eagleton formally withdrew from the race Aug. 1, after creating a furor with his announcement that he had undergone psychiatric treatment three times in the 1960s.

In a question and answer session with members of a Cape Girardeau Civic club, Eagleton backed Sen. George McGovern, his former running mate, but pointedly mentioned that he and McGovern differ on many domestic issues, particularly McGovern's stands on the economy and welfare.

Eagleton was asked if McGovern was moderating his stance of some positions and what effect it would have on his supporters.

"I can assure you there will be no wholesale switch in McGovern's positions," he said. "The strong motivation for McGovern in the primaries was the war issue...He still hasn't changed his attitude on the war, and he won't."

Fire Damages Dexter Home

DEXTER — Mr. and Mrs. Billy Gromer escaped injury early today when their home at 23 South Poplar was damaged by fire and smoke.

Firemen were called at 3:30 a.m. to the residence which had been ignited by electrical wiring in a hanging ceiling light. The wire burned through, the lamp dropped to the floor igniting the carpet, sofa and chair. Intense heat inside the house ignited the attic.

Fire Chief Al Banken said the Gromers are "two very lucky people to be alive. They could have suffocated before awakening."

Dollar estimates of damage were not available.

Charges Considered In Jail Spree

NEW MADRID — Prosecuting Attorney Hal E. Hunter Jr., said today that charges will probably be filed against New Madrid County prisoners involved in a chemical tossing incident Saturday in the county jail.

Ten prisoners were treated Saturday in the emergency room of Missouri Delta Community Hospital in Sikeston for scattered chemical burns. None were reported injured seriously.

Hunter said the charges would probably be filed following further investigation, noting that there is no hurry because the prisoners are not going anywhere.

Sheriff W. L. "Cowboy" Ramsey said some of the prisoners were tossing cups of water on each other and apparently one became angry. He picked up a can of toilet bowl cleaner, and when he tossed it around some of the caustic cleaner splattered the men.

Ramsey said there was no damage in the jail.

Theft Suspect Jailed

Herbert Wesley Brown, 225 Ruth, is in city jail today charged with stealing over $50.

Brown allegedly stole several items from his sister, who lives at the same address. The theft was discovered Tuesday when Mrs. Brown returned from a three day visit to East Prairie.

Brown was arrested yesterday after selling the items to Big Jim's Pawn Shop, 521 Greer. When the proprietor realized the items was stolen, he called police.

Stolen were a television set, an automatic washer, a bedroom set, and other small items. Police said all items have been recovered, except for the television set, which was resold. Police say they expect to recover it soon.

Other arrests yesterday include Kathey Oakley, Anniston, speeding. Elizabeth A. Turley, 723 Good Hope, speeding. Linda M. Jones, 247 Selma Street, public intoxication.

YOUR RESPONSIBILITY

Labor Day, the summer season's last important holiday, is almost here. As with all three-day holidays, one primary consideration will be sheer survival in the press of traffic and other hazards of congestion.

There is another consideration too of which we should all be acutely conscious. As individuals, we can each contribute mightily to pollution control during a period when lakes, forests, streams and parks are swamped with visitors. A leafelet, issued by Enterprise Publications of Chicago, offers the following questionnaire for those who are sincerely concerned about pollution. It asks, among other things: When did I last throw an empty can, bottle, cigarette butt, or paper wrapper out of the car window? When did I last throw a cigarette pack, gum or candy wrapper on the street or the floor of a public building? When did I last leave a picnic table without cleaning up? When did I last leave a camp site without picking up all the refuse? When did I last leave a public or private beach without picking up paper, glass, or other sharp objects? When did I last -- when no one was looking -- drop off garbage or junk by the side of the road -- hoping I wouldn't be caught?

How these questions can be answered by those returning from the long Labor Day weekend will be a pretty accurate gauge of public interest in pollution control.

SCOUTS: NEW AND IMPROVED

The Boy Scouts of Ameria, like many other institutions these days, is on a quest for relevance. A survey done by Daniel Yankelovich Inc. in 1968 revealed that many scouts found their organization too rigidly structured and its activities unrelated to future needs or present realities. To remedy that situation, and to recruit more older and minority youths, the BSA on Friday, Sept. 1, will kick off the "Boypower '76" campaign.

The campaign aims to involve one out of every three boys in scouting by 1976. Also "Boypower '76" includes the first nationwide fund-raising effort in the BSA's 62-year history. At present, the 154,322 scout units in the country exist on local contributions. The money raised in the campaign will finance the training of scout leaders for areas -- such as inner cities -- where parent volunteers and local support are scarce.

A look at the latest scout handbook, published in June 1972, reveals a new appraoch. Along with the traditional knot-tying and tent-pitching, the book informs scouts on drug abuse, urban transit, ethnic groups and ecology. In Washington, D.C. and other big cities, some scouts read comic - book-style handbooks. New merit badges reward such skills as treating rat bites and mastering subway systems.

The new program will bring changes in form as well as in content. Troops may now wear a streamlined uniform -- minus the red piping, insignia and baggy pants. Instead of the wedge - shape GI hat, they may choose a red beret or a visored field cap. And because the Yankelovich survey turned up dissatisfaction with the term boy, members will now be referred to simply as scouts.

A few days from now, organized labor's kingpins will move to center-stage and take their yearly bows, accepting for America's 80 million working men and women the thanks of a Nation for a job well done.

The occasion will be Labor Day 1972.

Set aside many years ago by Congress as a day of recognition for the wage-earner, whose contributions to building America and keeping it vital go unnoticed in the day - to - day course of things, Labor Day today is taken to be the day of glory of the union bosses. They're the only ones who really get to take a bow (maybe everyone else is on vacation).

But that's not how it should be. Labor Day ought to be given back to the workers, 60 million of whom for one reason of another have decided they're better off without union bosses representing them, and who obviously don't want organized labor's cigar-chompers taking bows for them.

As a sweetner to the worker who is generally overlooked on Labor Day in favor of the union pros, something extra ought to be added: a promise that they can continue working without ever being faced with having to choose between union membership and losing their jobs.

Sixty million workers have decided against union membership. Of the fewer than 20 million who have joined, an indeterminable number are members only because they have to be.

While some unions have made tremendous contributions to the personal well-being of their members, and continue to do so, and would continue to merit membership, some unions have not. Under poor leadership they have abused the trust of their members; they have spent union funds to support partisan causes and candidates that many members oppose; they have put the members' welfare second to the building of a powerful union machine.

A National Right to Work bill would put an end to this. It would let all 80 million members of the work-force join unions if they want to, quit if they want to, or never join if that's the way they want it. To get members, union officials would have to prove the union deserves members. And the same to keep them.

So maybe this Labor Day the President's proclamation ought to issue a promise of a gift. The gift of freedom for every employee to work for a living without paying tribute to union bosses he doesn't want, and to take his own bows next Labor Day.

MIGRATION
HEADACHES

Simple population growth places ever-increasing demands on the world's resources and environment. When the population is highly mobile in addition, those demands become even greater. Thus, a key theme of the Fifth General Assembly of the International Biological Program (IBP) will be migrating man. Founded in 1964, the IBP helped to lay the groundwork for the recent U.N. Conference on the Human Environment in Stockholm. Its forthcoming assembly will get under way Wednesday, Aug. 30, in Seattle.

The urge to migrate probably is strongest in the United States, often described as a nation of immigrants. But now every section of the country is growing aware of the adverse effects of large population shifts. To preserve their own states' natural beauty, the New Mexico Undevelopment Commission and Oregon's James G. Blaine Society (two irreverent private groups) try to discourage migration from neighboring states. Vermont and New Hampshire find the influx of vacation - home seekers increasingly burdensome. And large cities everywhere find it difficult to absorb the flow of ill-educated poor people from rural areas, many of whom wind up on welfare.

Similar problems exist in other countries, and the IBP will examine some of them at its assembly. A two-day seminar on migration "will range from primitive Indians in the Amazonian jungle to Yugoslavian peasants moving from a mountain hut to a high-rise apartment overnight." Particular attention will be paid to the impact of migration on individual health, social adjustment, economic achievement, and fertility.

It is entirely possible that the freedom to migrate may be strictly limited before too long. Pete Morrison, a demographer for the Rand Corp., believes that the federal government may be forced to adopt population - distribution policies. Some localities already are discussing such measures as residency permits and migrant- entry fees. It could be that advocates of Zero Population Growth eventually will call for Minimal Population Movement as well.

The Arizona Farm Bureau Federation reports a statement by U. S. Secretary of Agriculture Earl Butz: "The American consumer now pays only 17.5 cents of each dollar for food. There's no country on the face of the earth that gets food as cheap as do the Americans. At no time in the history of this country have we bought food as cheap as that (17.5 cents)." He also said before a panel of radio broadcasters: "Take the last 15 to 20 years -- as compared to the late 1950's an hour's work today buys: 25 per cent more pork than it did 20 years ago, 20 per cent more beef, 13 per cent more potatoes, 30 per cent more milk and 40 per cent more eggs. Compared to income, food is America's best buy."

NEW YORK (AP) — Jumping to conclusions:

Women are better than men at holding grudges. Partly, it's because they are not as lazy as men; partly it's because fewer things generally happen to women than to men. Because they lead more varied lives, men find it too much trouble to hug a grievance to their bosom very long. Women, who get more milage out of any situation, have more time to spend on either hate or love.

A lady reader writes in and wants to know what she can do with leftover breaded veal cutlets. Personally, I've never had to face this problem; I've always made it an iron rule of life never to let lamb or breaded veal cutlets enter my front door. The only possible thing I can think of to do with leftover breaded veal cutlets would be to use them as ship ballast, but I doubt if you could wear them out no matter how many times you sailed them around the world.

Have you ever had a pair of handcuffs around your wrists? I never have, and never want to. That may not be much of a claim to fame—the mere fact a fellow's never been in jail—but if they were still alive, it would certainly surprise a lot of my old neighbors who were sure I'd wind up in the penitentiary.

Every knowledge has its limits. For example, I've met many men who learned in the army how to sew on a button—some even felt this relieved them of any need to get married—but I have never met a man who could make and sew a buttonhole.

If we all had our lives to live over again, we'd still probably do the same things—but at least we'd be looking for an easier way to get them done, and wihout so much wear and tear on the system.

When old people unexpectedly develop a greater love and appreciation of followers, this is an unconscious sign that they are becoming more reconciled to the approach of death to themselves. They recognize in the brevity of a flower's beauty the transience of their own being in the universal scheme.

Few things make a man feel more important over nothing than the preparing of his last will and testament. And isn't it a commentary on human nature that he gets more relish figuring who he wants to leave out of it than who he wants to put in?

A master thief is one who can steal an office clock off the wall 15 minutes before quitting time without being seen.

After retirement, a man needs a good wife more than ever. Without her, how would he ever think up a sensible reason for getting out of bed in the morning at all?

No matter how sadistic your boss may seem, you can be grateful for one thing: he never comes to work whistling, as the office boy does.

"HOT LINES" are primary community action drug abuse prevention programs. Hot lines are telephone referral, crisis-intervention services available to the community at all times. What's needed? A minimum of two telephone lines, a place to house them, qualified operators, information, professional back-up, some money.

Hot lines are first-line contacts for persons in trouble, persons who need information or those who just want to talk.

Hot lines should be manned 24 hours a day - or at a minimum, sundown to dawn.

It doesn't matter where the phones are located, or who mans them but it is important to get the word around that they exist.

Organizers of a hot line service should plan early for adequate back-up, both information and personnel. Operators should know how to reach professional resource people with one phone call -- a nurse available that moment, a doctor in the neighborhood, the town's legal aid society staff man. When things get too hot for the hot line operator, it's absolutely essential that he or she be able to get to someone who can handle the problem as quickly as possible, preferably while the caller is still on the line.

One final note: Keep good records of calls received, nature of the problem, action taken and any special circumstances. Do not record names; use numbers or some other code. Protect the identity of the caller. These records can be helpful in seeking funds (by documenting the need), opening up other community services (many calls asking for something you do not have), targeting drug abuse trends (increasing number of alcohol-related calls), and providing valuable clues to and improvement of the service.

A man who had just been promoted to vice president boasted so much about it to his wife that she finally retorted: "Vice-presidents are a dime a dozen. Why, in the supermarket they even have a vice- president in charge of prunes."

Furious, the husband phoned the supermarket in the expectation of refuting his wife. He asked to speak to the vice - president in charge of prunes.

"Which kind?" was the reply. "Packaged or bulk?"

There is little doubt that we are becoming highly specialized in almost every field of human endeavor. It is one of our strengths. Unfortunately, it's also one of our weaknesses.

GETTING TOGETHER

Individualism is the heart and soul of freedom. Individual rights are the cornerstone of limited constitutional government, as set forth by our Forefathers. The right of individuals to pursue their own destinies is inherent in a free society, but there are times when individuals must get together in a common cause to preserve that free society.

Now, 1972, is such a time! We have seen our President pay homage to the two faces of communism; we have seen the first peacetime wage- price freeze in our nation's history and we have seen evidence of a coming guaranteed annual income, among other things. We must get together and stop this ride down the rocky road to ruin.

Wondrous things can be done through resisting as a group. The story of the Turking prisoners in Korea, as told by Dr. William E. Mayer, is a fine example: There were 229 Turks and the communist commandant started to tell them what to do. A Turkish major stepped forward, saying, "It's not necessary to tell them, I'm in the command, tell me!"

The communist put the major in Camp no. 2, an isolation camp for "reactionary individualists." The same answer was given by the Turks until only privates were left. When the communist spoke, the oldest private answered, "I'm the senior private. It's not necessary to tell them, tell me."

Finally, all 229 men were together again in Camp no. 2. And they all came home. If these Turkish soldiers could accomplish this, think what free Americans could do if they got together.

Inside Labor

Kremlin Caper:
Angry American Seamen
Charge Soviet Doublecross
By Victor Riesel

WASHINGTON -- Offstage a seagoing drama is being played which could affect this national election. As prologue there is the fact that the Soviet Union now is desperately short of bread and characteristically long on gall. All over Europe these past few weeks--including word from those who cross into East Berlin regularly--I heard how truly hungry are much of the Russian rural people and how emaciated are their cattle.

Of all this there is little doubt, as I learned from excellent sources during long conversations in West Berlin and later in London. On my return here last week I discovered that the American public did not know what already was documented knowledge in some European labor, trade and intelligence circles:

There would have been sharp hunger in some Soviet regions if tens of thousands of tons of American grain had not been pouring into the U.S.S.R. for at least two months now. So disturbed was Communist Party General Secretary Leonid Brezhnev over the scarcity of all grains that he began ordering late last spring the immediate shipment from the U.S. without waiting for the second major conference with our Secretary of Commerce Pete Peterson scheduled and held early in August.

Small wonder. There are reports that two Russian truck drivers were sentenced to a year in a prison work camp for dumping several loads of stale and moldy bread loaves.

Thus at the end of June American grain began leaving Great Lakes and Gulf ports--not in American ships but in what are called "third flag" freighters. These have been chartered by the Russians, I'm told by U. S. Dept. of Commerce officials, "FOB"--freight on board. Thus the U.S.S.R. foreign trade purchasing trust was getting itself a bargain despite its pledge to throw some of the cargo business to the American Merchant Marine which has lost 50 percent of its trade. Or, in other terms, has lost sufficient business to force it to lay off some 30,000 American seamen in recent years. "Third flag" ships operate on mighty low wage scales compared with what the American seafarer has won.

Patiently the American Longshoremen loaded the breadstuff. Patiently the American unions of seagoing men waited for the Soviets to fulfill the promise they made to Peterson's colleague Andrew Gibson, Assistant Secretary of Commerce for Domestic and International Business--a promise which Andy passed on to the AFL-CIO waterfront unions: "I can assure you that for every Russian ship used there will be an American ship used."

In all, this would have created some 30,000 U.S. maritime jobs--a lot of "bread" for Americans. The full grain deal, which still is to be signed officially, calls for $750 million worth of the stuff or about 10 million tons. So the U.S. unions watched the Kremlin charter third- flag freighters to carry a million tons, two million and finally last week the total came to 3.5 million tons, or over a third of the huge deal which was to have revived dockside prosperity in the U.S.

And not one of the "booked" freighters was American. Suddenly it became obvious that technically the Soviets were not going to break their promise to use one U.S. vessel for every U.S.S.R. cargo carrier hauling the wheat.

They were just not going to use any Russian freighters on this run. Thus they would not have to match one for one with American craft.

The Kremlin has lots of runs for its freighters. They still push war supplies into North Vietnam by devious routes and ruses. They still carry military hardware to their clients in Cuba and away from Egypt. They still serve several client countries and friends in Africa and Latin America. And they still operate a heavy ocean bridge to India and Asia.

So they can use their freighters elsewhere and charter low-wage craft from such nations as Liberia or even Poland. If they keep this up they save a differential of some $30 million on the whole deal--they have their bread and eat it, too.

But no "bread" for American sailors. Not yet. Thus their promise of a 50-50 deal means nothing if they don't use Red ships or give a third of the business to American shippers.

About 12 days ago American resentment developed a razor -edged anger. Word came that three, possibly four, Russian ships were heading down the St. Lawrence to pick up grain in Chicago and other Great Lakes ports.

These have turned into the most phantom ships I've ever covered. Unions such as the International Longshoremen's Assn. and the National Maritime Union (NMU) (both AFL-CIO) charged the Red craft were steaming in but would never be allowed to pick up soy beans or any other grain--without charters first being signed for an equal number of American craft.

The Commerce Dept. claims there were no ships. AFL-CIO vice president and NMU president Joe Curran dashed off a telegram to President Nixon to alert him of possible trouble--meaning wide picketing.

The Russian ships, phantom or real, put back out to sea. So the Soviets play their traditional artful dodger game. We have a big grain surplus. We can use the money to ease our deficit in the balance of payments. The Russians need the grain for bread and cattle feed. They have, in effect, promised to continue buying possibly upward of $1 billion annually. But they won't pay the extra freight charges for American ships if they can help it. This is angering maritime unions which have practically pledged to endorse President Nixon right after Labor Day. These unions could go neutral. That's Act One. We'll now wait for curtain raiser on Act Two--word from Moscow.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON — The Justice Department must soon decide whether to investigate alleged criminal violations in the election of Rep. John Rooney, D-N.Y., who has immense power over the department because of his tight hold on its purse strings.

The cantankerous Rooney heads the House Appropriations subcommittee, which decides how much money the Justice Department can spend. Thus, Attorney General Richard Kleindienst will face the dilemma of subpoenaing the hand that feeds him.

The election case grows out of the bitter Democratic primary, which Rooney won by a disputed 890 votes. The loser, ex -Rep. Allard Lowenstein, has been calling for a new election.

He has pressed his case in the state courts. But now he is going into federal court with allegations against the Rooney machine that would make a Tammany Hall wardheeler blush.

For example, Rooney's nephew James and James's wife Beatrice are both shown on voting records as voting twice. When we reached them at their home across the street from their famous uncle, they insisted they had voted only once. If a second vote was cast in their name, they said, it was not done by them.

"There has been a foul -up somewhere," said James Rooney, a florist.

We also have copies of an official -looking postcard with "Primary Election Notice" printed on it. But on the back is an advertisement for Rooney's slate. The bulk rate Post Office permit was issued not to the Board of Elections, the seeming source of the card, but to the pro- Rooeny Pioneer Regular Democratic Club of Brooklyn.

FEDFRAL VIOLATION

Political ads with no reference to their sponsor violate the federal criminal code.

We have also learned that New York Board of Elections Commissioner Gumersindo Martinez, whose job it is to keep elections fair, boomed Rooney from a sound truck a few days before the primary.

He assured us this wouldn't interfere with his impartiality in dealing with the election. He had campaigned for Rooney on his own time, Martinez explained, because his wife ran as a committeewoman on the Rooney ticket.

We also have affidavits telling how supposedly neutral poll inspectors were assigned by the Rooney machine. Rooney himself, according to testimony, belabored Lowenstein poll workers twice when he visited a polling place.

When Lowenstein levers were broken in Puerto Rican and black areas where Lowenstein was strong, there's evidence they weren't fixed for long periods. Lowenstein plans to charge racial discrimination in his federal suit.

In one Lowenstein area, Rep. Paul McCloskey, R- Calif., was conducting a get-out-the vote campaign. He swears the lines were so slow that some 40 voters simply left.

A special deputy attorney general for New York has sworn that one Spanish -speaking woman arrived at the polls only to find that someone had forged her name on her voting card.

There's no reason to believe Rooney was personally aware of all that his supporters were doing at the polls. But it will be interesting to see what the Justice Department does about the allegations.

Footnote: A finding of fraudulent election would mean Rooney must run again. Rooney could not be reached for comment.

STANS'S FRIENDS

President Nixon's chief money raiser, Maurice Stans, has accused Democratic Congressmen of pressuring the General Accounting Office to rush the release of a controversial report charging the Republicans with election law violations.

Our own investigation indicates that the real pressure came from Stans, himslef, who pulled strings to delay publication of the GAO audit temporarily.

The report had been scheduled for release on the day President Nixon was renominated. Stans apparently didn't want the President's triumph spoiled by an embarrassing report. Taking advantage of the friendship of two key GAO officials, Stans personally intervened to hold up the release.

He telephoned Comptroller General Elmer Staats and GAO elections chief Phil Hughes to ask them to hold off. Both men had worked under Stans when he ran the Bureau of the Budget for the late President Eisenhower.

Indeed, Stans gave both of them promotions. Staats became Stans's deputy director and Hughes was promoted to be deputy legislative chief. Stans also served in the late 1960s on a personal consultant panel for Staats.

In talking to Staats and Hughes a week ago Tuesday, Stans said he nad additional information and asked them to delay the report to include it.

Actually, Stans had been questioned by GAO investigators on several earlier occasions. But his last -minute tactics worked and the embarrassing audit was held up for four days.

After the GAO report belatedly hit the headlines. Stans charged that it had been rushed into print as a result of pressure from Democratic congressmen. But Stans's office wouldn't name any of the Democratic congressmen nor provide us with any details. Stans himself refused to talk to us.

Footnote: The GAO report charged the Republicans with 11 possible or apparent violations fo the new campaign reporting law, involving a total of $350,000 in campaign contributions.

Investigate Murder Of Man In St. Louis

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Police here were investigating Wednesday the shooting death of a 26-year-old ex-convict from Poplar Bluff, who was found shot in the back of the head in a St. Louis motel Tuesday.

Police identified the victim as Marvin Claude Spradling, whose nude body was found between two beds in his room at the Quality Motel by motel employes. Police said no weapon or discharged shells were found in the room.

Spradling was released in May from the Missouri Penitentiary after serving part of a three-year term for felonious assault in Butler County. At the time of his death, Spradling was free on $10,000 bond after his arrest Aug. 18 on a charge of possession of amphetamines and barbuturates.

New Financing Charges

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican charges of "devious cover-ups" have drawn Democratic claims of "nitpicking" in the latest round of accusations over presidential campaign money-handling under a new law.

While Democratic presidential nominee George S. McGovern's campaign has "attempted to hold its candidate out to the public as above reproach, his organization has in fact resorted to devious coverups in various fund raising activities," GOP National Chairman Robert J. Dole said Wednesday.

Dole called for a probe by the General Accounting Office— which the audit agency said is already under way. "I believe there is substantial evidence that the McGovern campaign apparatus has committed at least seven serious violations" of the new political finance law, Dole said in a letter to GAO.

A GAO official said, "We plan to give this the same type of treatment we gave the Republicans."

For Dole "to accuse the McGovern campaign of the kind of violations that are talked about in this letter," Mankiewicz said, "is somewhat like a man caught on the street after a bank robbery with the cash in a sack calling in the police to arrest a jaywalker he sees crossing the street. I don't think anybody is fooled by this."

Won't Represent Break-In Suspect

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Justice Department has given up its efforts to represent a White House aide and a Secret Service agent in connection with a $1 million civil suit filed against five men accused of bugging Democratic headquarters.

A department spokesman refused comment Wednesday when asked why the department declined to appeal the ruling of a federal judge.

U.S. Dist. Court Judge Charles Richey ruled earlier that the department could not defend White House aide Charles Colson and Alfred Wong, chief of Secret Service technical security at the White House, in connection with the civil suit because the department was investigating a criminal suit arising out of the alleged bugging incident. Defending the two men, the judge ruled, would create a conflict of interest.

Colson hired former CIA agent E. Howard Hunt, whom sources have connected with the five men arrested in the case. Wong reportedly recommended that one of the men arrested—James W. McCord—be hired by the Committee to ReElect the President as security chief.

Two Hurt In SeMo Accidents

Two persons were injured in two separate highway accidents Wednesday, according to reports issued by the highway patrol.

He had to be pulled from the car, which later caught fire and burned. He was taken to Missouri Delta Community Hospital in Sikeston.

June Alice Archie, 19, of East Prairie Route Two sustained possible back injuries and broken nose and an injured arm in a two car mishap at 7:50 p.m. on Highway 77, near Dorena. The accident occurred as a car driven by P. L. Carlisle, 44, of East Prairie Route Two backed onto the highway from a drive into the path of the Archie vehicle. At 1:30 a.m. today the fire department was called to Methodist Alley to distinguish a fire in a two family apartment building recently purchased by Urban Renewal. The fire started in the apartment occupied by Jesse Hull, reportedly when a dog knocked over a can of gasoline and it ignited.

1,800 Students Enroll In Malden Schools

MALDEN — The R-1 School District enrolled 1,800 students last week for the beginning of the 1972-73 school term.

The figure is just 15 students short of the total enrollment for last year, however the school usually gains several new students during the first weeks of operation.

Over-crowdedness in classrooms was eased somewhat this year with the renovating of the old elementary school building on Beckwith Street. Elementary classes were resumed in the building this year.

A breakdown of the total enrollment shows 1,008 students for the elementary, including kindergarten through the 6th grade.

The junior higher department, or 7th and 8th grades, has an enrollment of 296 students; and the senior high enrollment is 496.

The trade school, which draws students from throughout the tri-county area, opened the school term with an enrollment of 236. Included in that figure is 71 Malden students represented in the 1,800 total enrollment.

Ann Landers

Epileptic Should Be Invited To Wedding

Dear Ann Landers: You be the judge. Our son insists that he not be denied the right to "be himself" -- his father says, "You must learn to compromise if you're going to live in the real world." Who is right?

John walked the streets for three solid weeks looking for a job. He is 20, has decided not to go back to college (says it's a waste of time) and is a quiet boy with strong principles. John and his father have always seen things from a different point of view. I am sure John is not as radical as his father thinks he is, nor is his father as conservative as John seems to believe.

Tonight a friend of ours called to let us know that John had been in to see him about a job. Our friend told John that since he would be meeting the public he would have to trim his hair somewhat and get rid of his beard. John promptly let him know that he did not want the job if it meant submerging his personality and be something he wasn't.

A full-blown argument followed between father and son and, as is the case with most arguments, no one convinced anyone of anything. We would appreciate it if you would let us know how you feel about this. Could John have accepted the boss' terms without "selling out to the Establishment?" ---For and Against

Dear F and A: When a young man goes looking for a job he should accept the fact that he is not going to make the rules or call the signals. The burden of proof is on him --not the employer. An employer who does not want a young man with long hair and a beard will not look favorably on a fellow who says "take it or leave it."

I realize there are laws against discrimination, but there are not laws against refusing to hire an applicant with a negative personality -and this is why John and others like him lose out.

Dear Ann Landers: Our daughter is marrying a boy we do not know very well. His family lives in another city. The mother of the groom sent us the guest list yesterday. We were surprised to see the name of a young cousin who is an epileptic. We don't want to spoil the wedding by exposing our guests to the unpleasant experience of witnessing a fit. What can we do except tell the woman we don't want to take the chance -----On the Spot

Dear ON: Almost all epileptics respond to drugs which control seizures. (Please don't say "fits".) The cousin should be invited. To exclude him would be an unspeakable act of cruelty.

Dear Ann Landers: Recently a column of yours created quite an argument. I refer to the one where you said it was in poor taste to print on an invitation to an anniversary party, "no gifts please."

A couple of women said you had a lot of nerve to say yes or no on such a personal matter. Frankly, I think when people ask for your opinion you have the right to tell them what you think.

And now here's another question along the same line: I received a wedding invitation last week and to it was attached a little card that said, "The bride is doing their apartment in Italiam Provincial. This might be helpful to know."

Do you consider such a message to be in good taste? Yes or no. -----Just Asking.

Dear Just: No, I do not.

Is an upcoming wedding driving you bananas? Ann Lander's comprehensive booklet, "The Bride's Guide," gives you the facts from the initial announcement to the last bill and who should pay it. To receive your copy, write to Ann Landers, in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long, self -addressed, stamped, envelope and 35c in coin.

Vaughn Signs Exclusive Contract With Trident

Robert Richard (Dick) Vaughan, Jr., formerly of Sikeston, has signed a contract with Trident Publications in New York City. He will write exclusively for Trident during the term of the contract.

Vaughan sold Trident a fictional novel which he calls, "Valcyrie Mandate," and it will be published in the fall of 1973. At the same time, Vaughan promised delivery on two more novels, written on subjects chosen by the publishers.

Another of Dick's novels called, "Heart of Nashville," will also be published in 1973. It is a fictional story about ccuntry and western entertainers, and the focal point of the story center around the country and western music and entertainer award presentations in Nashville, Tenn.

Vaughan's latest release, Brandywine's War, has been sold to television and movie producer Mark Carliner. The movie will be filmed in 1973 and is budgeted at $2 million. Vaughan is under contract to Carliner to act as technical consultant during the filming. Brandywine's War is now in stock at Britts Department Store in Kingsway Plaza Mall in Sikeston.

In addition to his novels, Dick has still found time to write feature articles for various newspapers and magazines. One such article appeared in the June issue of Aviation Digest and won both the monthly and yearly first prize award. This makes a total of six awards won by the author for articles in that magazine.

Vaughan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Vaughan, 410 Shady Lane in Sikeston is a 1955 graduate of Sikeston High School and is now living in Newport News, Va.

Charleston Urban Renewal, Housing Staffs Combine

CHARLESTON — Staffs of the Charleston urban renewal and public housing agencies have been combined and the boards of the two agencies will be combined over the next 14 months, according to George Simmons, chairman of the Land Clearance for Redevelopment Authority (Urban Renewal Board).

Simmons said the housing authority office on West Ada Street was closed and the staff moved to the Urban Renewal office on West Commercial Street.

Tanna Parish, executive director of urban renewal, becomes director of the joint agency, with Richard Logan, former housing authority director as his assistant director, specializing in housing affairs.

The Ada Street building will be used as housing authority maintenance headquarters.

A rent collection office has been opened in the new community center, 106 West Iron Bank Road, built as part of the housing complex for the elderly.

Although the staffs have consolidated for purposes of greater efficiency and better coordination, Simmons said, the two boards will remain separate legal entities.

The appointment of housing authority member Bill Purnell to the Urban Renewal board, following the recent resignation of Coy Franklin, is the first step in consolidating the two boards, Simmons said.

As terms of members of the two boards expire, he said, the Charleston mayor will be asked to appoint members of the other body to fill the vacancies. For example, he said, next spring two members of the Housing Authority are due to step down. Their places will be taken by members of the Urban Renewal board. Within 14 months the two boards should have the same membership, Simmons said, although they will remain separate for legal purposes.

At present, the members of the Housing Authority are Chairman Jack Carson, William Purnell, Milton Clack, Rowe Powell and Herbert Marshall. The Urban Renewal Authority includes Chairman Simmons, Purnell, Layton Pickard, James Moran and Willie Hart.

Gets $4.39 An Hour For 'Head Swamping'

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — There is unrest in the rest rooms at Tinker Air Force Base.

An Oklahoma City newspaper, the Oklahoma City Times, reported today it had received a letter from a civilian mechanic at the base with 22 years of experience who complained that he was routinely assigned to clean the latrines.

The specialist, who asked not to be identified, said he considers the job "kind of degrading."

He isn't the only skilled worker assigned the janitorial task. A number of journeymen in the aircraft division have been assigned similar duties.

The complainer, with a WG-10 government job rating, gets $4.39 an hour for "head swamping" but a Tinker spokesman said it's all part of an effort to save money.

"We can only have so many people, and we'd rather keep the mechanics than the janitors," said the spokesman. The janitorial force has been reduced by what he termed "austerity funding."

Lowell Malley, president of Local 916, American Federation of Government Employes at Tinker, said other employes at the vast airbase also are complaining.

"It doesn't help morale at all," he said, "It's one of my pet peeves."

The Tinker spokesman said the mechanic's rotating hour-a- day work in the rest room for five days once every five weeks is part of the base's "self- help" program.

Six other workers in the crew also rotate on the same work.

The complainer said he is used to lunchroom cleanup, a routine since he started to work at Tinker in 1950.

"But it seems to me this other kind of job is degrading," he said. "I just know that somewhere on Tinker Field there are some lesser- skilled people to do this work."

WG-2s, normally assigned custodial duties, are paid $2.74 an hour.

Kenneth Stinnett, chief steward for Local 916, said, "It's been quite a thorn in our side and it looks to us like a waste of money in utilization of journeymen mechanics to do this type of work."

Asians' Suffer From Wet Summer

TOKYO (AP) — Filipino villagers carrying lighted candles waded waist- deep in swirling flood waters, praying for divine help. In Japan, a one- year- old baby was dug from the mud, chortling and unhurt.

A 12- story luxury apartment house in Hong Kong collapsed under the pounding of thousands of tons of rain-weakened earth. A British attorney, pinned in the debris, calmly directed rescue workers.

In South Korea, U.S. Army and Air Force helicopters and trucks helped save the lives of more than 3,400 people in flooded cities.

Scenes of misery, suffering and bravery were commonplace in much of he Far East this wet summer as torrential rains touched off floods and landslides that destroyed hundreds of thousands of dwellings.

By today the death toll had reached 1,384. Damage mounted into the hundreds of millions of dollars. The poverty or modest circumstances of most of the victims living in low- lying areas or hillside squatter villages kept it from being much higher.

Four areas were hit hardest; the Philippines, with 454 dead; South Korea, 398 dead and 130 missing; Japan, 370 dead, 67 missing; and Hong Kong, 162 dead.

Heavy rains also pounded China, flooding Peking, but no figures were available on casualties or damage.

Monsoons are the prevailing winds in East Asia that bring up to half a year of wet weather. Typhoons are the vast wind and rainstorms that lash the western Pacific during the summer and autumn. Born in the area near Guam, they sometimes reach 150 miles an hour and may cover an area half the size of the United States. There are as many as 35 each year.

This year's rains began taking their toll in mid- June, triggering disastrous landslides in the British colony of Hong Kong, where many of the 5 million inhabitants live on steep hillsides.

The rain totaled more than 60 inches in three days, the heaviest in Hong Kong's history. Landslides buried 78 squatters' huts in Kowloon, on the mainland, the usual aftermath of a heavy rain in Hong Kong.

But this time Victoria Peak, the home of the rich on Hong Kong Island, was also hit. A new building near the top collapsed, setting off a chain-reaction slide of mud and structures in which four buildings were brought down.

Henry Litton, a leading attorney, was found alive in the rubble, one foot pinned by a heavy beam. Chatting calmly with his rescuers, he drank water and ate food while a buzz saw set him free.

Nearly 5,000 other homes had to be evacuated.

For two weeks in July, the rains bore down on Japan.

An irrigation canal overflowed with a roar in the middle of the night, crushing the home of the Matsumoto family and burying one- year-old Kazumi and two of his grandparents. Another grandparent groped in the mud and felt something soft. It was Kazumi, crying as he was pulled free, then laughing.

The Construction Ministry estimated that the rains, which struck Southwest Japan hardest, caus d $472 million in property dan age.

In the Philippines a month of rains ravaged 13 provinces on Luzon Island and set back the economy at least two or three years, government economists said.

Damage to crops and property was estimated at more than $450 million whilethe cost in human suffering was incalculable.

People stranded on rooftops fought for food dropped from U.S. Air Force helicopters. Babies died because they could not eat the high- nutrient buns that were one of the chief relief food items.

Police were given shoot- to-kill orders against looters.

The worst South Korean floods in 47 years left Seoul and other cities awash last weekend and made 300,000 homeless. Nearly 500,000 government workers, high school and college students and militiamen repaired dikes, cleared debris and cleaned clogged sewage systems.

DOWNTOWN SIKESTON

THE BUCKNER RAGSDALE Co

To Test Auto Air Bag System

WASHINGTON (AP) — The controversial auto safety air cushion system is about to get its first government testing under actual highway driving conditions.

Secretary of Transportation John Volpe Monday accepted for delivery to the General Services Administration 125 Mercury model four-door sedans equipped with factory installed air cushion systems.

These will get 18 months of testing in Los Angeles, Salt Lake City, Miami, Fla., San Antonio, Tex., and Buffalo, N.Y. The cities were chosen as representative of widely differing driving conditions and because of their nearness to accident investigation teams sponsored by the National Highway Traffic Safety.

The passive restraint may be required on all autos built after Aug. 15, 1975, if the tests prove out. To date, air bags appear to be the only system that will meet the requirements by the 1975 operational deadline.

The air cushion passive restraint system in the test cars is provided only for the passenger in the right front seat, but all seating positions have lap belts.

Dear Mr. Blanton,

Jack Anderson's gratuitous slander of Tom Eagleton simply verified my opinion of him — he seems to have NO concern about the truth, but merely writes what will sell; he has no concern for people, but wants to sell his column regardless of hurting anyone.

Your editorial policy should be concerned both with the truth and the good of people. Continuing to run his column militates against both concerns.

Sincerely,
Rev. Robert Schumacher

Cards Continue To Deal

ST. LOUIS (AP) — "It's part of the game," a smiling Dal Maxvill said. "You have to be prepared for it. I've had fun here, now I'll have fun there."

Maxvill's words came only minutes after the 33-year-old shortstop, a 10-season veteran with the St. Louis Cardinals, was traded Wednesday to the Oakland A's of the American League.

It marked still another in a series of moves designed by general manager Bing Devine to restructure the Cards and left only two holdovers from the 1966-67-68 club pennant winners.

"It sure seems like time has gone fast," said the slim Maxvill, who became the Cards' regular shortstop in 1966 and held the post through most of seven seasons despite a light bat.

Rated among the top fielding shortstops in the National League, Maxvill had compensated for a .219 career batting mark with glove work that included an N.L.-leading .982 fielding average at his position in 1970.

"The time has come for us to look ahead," said Devine, whose deal was the fifth he has negotiated with Oakland. "We have a lot of young players, some of them the best we've ever had, and we might as well find out what they can do."

Only 72 hours earlier the Cards had sent veteran Matty Alou to the A's for outfielder Bill Voss and a minor league pitcher.

This time the Cards got firstyear infielder Joe Lindsey, who was hitting .259 in 36 games at Birmingham of the Southern League and a player to be named later.

"I can understand that," Maxvill said in regard to Devine's plans. "I'm 33, and they want players that can be with them in the future."

Maxvill's departure leaves only Bob Gibson and Lou Brock from the Cards' 68 N.L. champions.

SPORT SHORTS

EAST LONGMEADOW, Mass. (AP) — Four pros share first place honors after the first round Wednesday of the 36-hole $10,400 Western Massachusetts Golf Open at Elmcrest Country Club.

Carding first place scores of two-under-par 68s were defending titlist and two-time winner Ralph Johnston of New York City, Mike Joyce, also of New York City, George Cereratti, Agawan, Mass., and Bruce Ashworth, Las Vegas, Nev.

CALA DI VOLPE, Sardinia (AP) — Joe Frazier, world heavyweight boxing champion helped free eight Carabinieri— national policemen—from a helicopter which crashed Wednesday near this town on Sardinia's fashionable Costa Smeralda.

The helicopter plunged near a golf course where Frazier was playing. Five of the policemen suffered injuries and were taken to the hospital.

Marksman A Surprise

MUNICH (AP) — It was the best of days for one sharpshooter. It was very nearly the worst of days for 10 others. It was the bitterest of days for one high flyer. It was the sweetest of days for another.

"I don't spend 30 hours a week at a hobby," John Writer said Wednesday after winning the three-position small-bore riflery and setting a bit of American Olympic history. "This is a sport. Real competition."

By winning the gold medal at these 20th Summer Games, the 27-year-old Chicago marksman gave the United States its second shooting medal, the first time the United States has won more than one in the traditionally European-dominated sport.

Writer scored a world and Olympic record 1,166 points out of a possible 1,200 in the prone, kneeling and standing positions. And the United States got its third shooting medal when Lanny Bassham of Comanche, Tex., an Army marksmanship instructor at Ft. Benning, Ga., got the silver, finishing behind Writer with 1,157 points.

Vic Auer of North Hollywood, Calif., had gotten America's first shooting medal of the Games on Monday, taking a silver in the small-bore prone competition.

The 10 other sharpshooters are known collectively as the U.S. basketball team, whose supremacy of the game in the Olympics very nearly came to an end Wednesday.

"We needed a game like this where we had to come from behind," Coach Hank Iba said of his kids after they rallied from seven points down in the second half to pull out a 61-54 triumph over Brazil.

The victory was the fourth for the Yanks, now undefeated in 59 contests stretching back to the 1936 Berlin Games, when the sport was introduced to the Olympics.

The bitter high-flyer was Bob Seagren, America's premiere pole vaulter, angered over what he called "obviously a political decision" on the part of the International Amateur Athletic Federation to outlaw his green vaulting pole for the Games.

The pole, with a newer weave of fiberglass than the old ones, came out last year and Seagren, rebounding from knee surgery, used it to set his world record of 18 feet 5¾ inches.

After he set the record last month, the IAAF banned the pole saying it hadn't been available for world-wide use.

On Monday, the IAAF reversed itself, reinstating the pole. On Wednesday the federation reversed itself again. "It's a personal vendetta against me and against America," said the angry Seagren of Monterey Park, Calif.

Seagren got a bit of good news—and Sweden a bit of disastrous news—when it was announced that his stiffest competitor for the gold, Kjell Isaksson, would not compete because of groin and leg injuries.

The happiest high-flyer was Vladimir Vasin, a Moscow University economics student who won the gold in springboard diving, ending a 60-year U.S. domination of the three-meter event.

"For years the Americans have been the best divers in the world," said the handsome 25year-old Russian. "But now we have come to the conclusion that they are not gods and that we can compete with them."

Craig Lincoln of Hopkins, Minn., rallied from sixth place on his final two dives to win the bronze behind Italy's Franco Cagnotto.

In the four swimming finals, the United States wound up with one gold, two silvers and a bronze. That, along with the rest of the day's competition, gave America 22 medals thus far—seven gold, nine silver and six bronze. Second in the standings is East Germany with 15 medals, five of them gold.

Four U.S. gals combined to get the lone water gold, winning the women's 400-meter freestyle relay in a worldrecord time of 3:55.19.

Shirley Babashoff of Fountain Valley, Calif., was the heroine as she covered the final 100 meters in a sizzling 58.18 seconds to overtake East German anchor swimmer Kornelia Ender.

Japan swept the men's gymnastics with Sawao Kato copping the gold.

Grid Rules Discussed

DEXTER — Football coaches and officials were guests of the Dexter public schools Tuesday evening for a football rules interpretation meeting under the direction of Leon Marler, one of the district's top high school grid officials and Missouri State High School Activities Association interpreter.

A total of 18 rules changes or additions were discussed and five present rules were emphasized during the hour and a half session.

Rule 9-1-2 provides that an offensive player who is outside the free blocking zone at the snap may not block a defensive man below the waist in an area 3 yards behind each scrimmage extending laterally the width of the field if such block is toward the spot of the snap.

This new rule was the only one that was discussed at length and seemed to cause some concern with the majority of the coaches present.

(The Rule)

Rule 9-1-2 (page 44) -- New rule provides that an offensive player who is outside the FREE BLOCKING ZONE at the snap may not block a defensive man below the waist in an area 3 yards behind each scrimmage extending laterally the width of the field if such block is toward the spot of the snap.

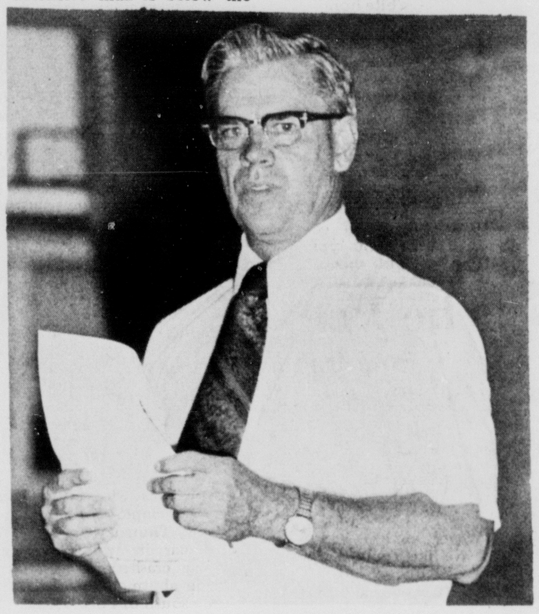
1. The 6 yard "belt" extends from sideline to sideline and remains in effect throughout the down or until the ball is advanced beyond that area toward B's goal line.

2. Restrictions apply:

a. To offensive players who are outside the free blocking zone at the snap.

b. Only to blocks that occur in the 6 yard "belt" extending from sideline to sideline.

c. Only to blocks where the initial contact with the defensive man is below the waist and the force of the block is toward the spot from which the snap was made.



Leon Marler

3. There are no restrictions under this rule in the following situations:

a. For blockers who are in the free blocking zone at the snap.

b. For blocks that occur outside the 6 yard "belt".

c. If the force of the block is away from the spot from which the snap was made.

d. For blocks where the initial contact is above the waist of the defensive man.

e. Anytime the ball is advanced beyond the belt toward B's goal line.

4. The wing officials are primarily responsible for observing the crack- back block on their side.

a. Referee may have to help in some situations.

b. Must determine whether block was toward snap, away from snap or straight down field.

c. If offensive man positioned outside opponent, he is suspect.

5. Coaching point - if man blocks to the inside, initial contact must be above waist; if to the outside or head on, may be above or below waist.

6. Foul for illegal block, 15 yard penalty.

Sports Briefs

MUNICH (AP) — Special high holiday services for Jewish competitors in the Olympic Games have been arranged at the Olympic Village chapel.

Services are scheduled for the night of Sept. 8 and for the morning of Sept. 9 by the Israeli delegation. No competiton involving Israelis is scheduled to last beyond sundown Sept. 8 when the eight- day religious period for Jews begins.

MUNICH (AP) — Lt. Col. Bill McMillan keeps having trouble with name mixups as a member of U.S. Olympic Teams. He won a gold medal for rapid fire pistol shooting in 1960, and now is taking part in his fifth Olympics.

At one time, people kept knocking on his door when trying to find Bob McMillan, a middle distance runner.

MUNICH (AP) — "All kids are hard to coach now days," U.S. Olympic Basketball Coach Henry Iba says.

The 68- year- old Iba, coaching in his third consecutive Olympics, had been asked if younger players — this is the youngest U.S. Olympic team ever — are harder to coach than older athletes.

The trouble, he said, lies with "fathers, mothers, school teachers and ministers."

The Case Of The Charred Romance

By Jack Strauss, LL.B.

Ella and Peter lived in a small town where every romance generated gossip of epidemic proportion. Consequently, to avoid wagging tongues, when Ella and Peter fell in love, Peter drove Ella to a neighboring town where he registered with her at a motel as man and wife.

And while things got pretty hot that night, it wasn't due to their romance. It was due to the negligence of the motel owner who carelessly, and inconsiderably, caused the motel to burn to the ground.

Suffering severe burns, to say nothing of their charred romance, Ella and Peter sued the owner of the motel for their injuries.

"It was horrible," they told the judge. "Flames jumped at us like we were marshmellows. As his guests, the motel owner had a duty to protect us from being toasted. He had an obligation to exercise care for our safety."

"Guests my foot," was the answer. "Having registered at my motel under false pretenses as man and wife, they were trespassers and not guests. Under the circumstances, I owed them no duty whatsoever."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you find that Peter and Ella were guests of the motel so as to allow them to collect for their injuries?

This is how the judge ruled: YES! The judge held that false registration at a hotel does not affect the status of the occupants as guests of the hotel owner.

On this date:

In 1654, the Rhode Island General Assembly banned the sale of liquor to Indians.

In 1903, a Packard car reached New York after a 52day trip from San Francisco, becoming the first automobile to cross the continent under its own power.

In 1914, German forces defeated the Russians in the World War I Battle of Tannenberg in Poland.

In 1935, President Franklin D. Roosevelt signed a neutrality act prohibiting the export of U.S. arms to belligerents.

In 1954, Hurricane Carol hit the northeastern United States, killing 68 persons and causing damage in the millions of dollars.

Several Tests Determine TB

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb — Can you tell me what tests can be taken for tuberculosis besides chest X rays to determine whether a case is arrested or active?

Dear Reader — Chest X rays certainly help. In addition, skin testing is thought to be important by some doctors in assessing the status of tuberculosis and, of course, there are numerous cultures that can be taken. One of the most common of these is to collect sputum specimens and then samples of the sputum are streaked over a culture medium (the food material for the bacteria) and set away to see if germs will grow.

Basically, you could almost say that the bacteria are planted like seeds and then you wait to see if they grow out. If there is no growth you assume there weren't any seeds, or in this case no bacteria.

In addition to the frequent sputum samples for tuberculosis cultures, blood cultures can be taken and the urine can be tested. The urine is often tested to see if the tuberculosis involves the kidney.

Incidentally, tuberculosis can involve other parts of the body besides the lungs and for this reason X rays of other parts of the body are sometimes helpful, including those of the skeleton. Principally by the use of cultures and X rays one can determine fairly accurately whether a case of tuberculosis is truly active or not.

Dear Dr. Lamb — When I was 18 my family doctor found a heart murmur. He sent me to a heart specialist who took some tests and said it wasn't serious. Then three years later, I went to another doctor and he discovered that the heart murmur was caused by pulmonary stenosis and said I should be checked every six months. He thinks it should be getting better, but it remains the same. Can you enlighten me further to explain what this is?

Dear Reader — If that indeed is what you have, it's a defect that you were born with. The blood that flows out from the right muscular chamber of the heart is pumped to the lungs for oxygenation. The entire amount of our unoxygenated blood must go to the lungs through the pulmonary artery. If there is an obstruction to the outflow of blood to the pulmonary artery it is called pulmonary stenosis. The obstruction can be of the pulmonary valve itself or it can involve the overgrowth of the heart muscle tissue at the outlet below the pulmonary valve.

If surgery is needed the surgeon simply enters the heart and opens the obstructed valve or cuts away the excess muscular tissue directly underneath the valve. These operations have been done for many years and are highly successful. Of course, if the obstruction is minimal, then you don't need to have the surgery. I would guess from the innocuous sound of your history that you have been getting along fairly well and this is probably why your doctor hasn't recommended doing anything else.
